Biologist Defends DEC Action

NEW PALTZ — Although many sympathetic citizens have roundly criticized conservation officials for the role they played in the removal and death of a domesticated deer this week, a number of equally concerned residents have both defended the Department of Environmental Conservation (DEC) and expressed support for the laws its personnel are required to uphold.

Among the most vocal is Steve Schwartz, a biologist, a member of the Rondout Valley Rod and Gun Club and publicity director for the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County.

Schwartz believes that Jack LaFalce of New Paltz—who raised and domesticated the 11-month-old doe from infancy—has been unfairly portrayed as a hero; and that the DEC's conservation officers—whose responsibility it is to protect the state's wildlife resources—have been unjustly portrayed as villains.

"LaFalce is a farmer. He should have known better," said Schwartz. "Every farmer in the state knows that it is illegal to take possession of a wild animal. In plain and simple terms, he is a criminal, and I hate to see him worshipped as a hero."

"The game laws were written for a purpose," said Schwartz. "they are on the books for the protection of the wildlife and the people. If one person is allowed to disregard those laws, there is no telling how far it will go."

Schwartz said that the people who have rallied to the side of the LaFalce family are suffering from a "Bambi complex"; that they don't comprehend the inherent dangers of harboring a wild animal, or the irreparable harm that the animals themselves face in an artificial, captive environment.

"During the mating season, or when the female is in heat, deer do not react like normal barnyard animals," said Schwartz. "they can't be coddled and handled like pets. They can be extremely dangerous."

"If people are allowed to domesticate deer, they won't stop there," Schwartz added. "you'll see people gathering up baby raccoons, skunks, bear cubs, wildcats ... the laws were written to protect the animals from exactly that. Anyone who disregards those laws is a fool and should be thrown in jail."

According to the New York State Conservation Law, LaFalce was apparently in violation of the statutes when he kept the animal after running over it with a hay mower last July and was in violation of Section 11-0919 of the Conservation Law.

LaFalce has admitted that he did not notify the conservation department after he found the fawn as the section requires and that he did not immediately apply for the required permit.

Schwartz comments on the importance of the conservation laws is borne out by a legal opinion rendered in 1917 in the case "Bennett versus New York State." The presiding judge wrote:

"The general right of the government to protect wild animals is too well established now to be called in question. Their ownership is in the state ... for the benefit of all the people."

Schwartz contends that the conservation officers were simply doing their job to provide that "special protection," and that the decision by DEC Commissioner Ogden Reid to investigate the matter and to issue new regulations is a "stab in the back" of "trained and dedicated conservation officers who know the law and who know what they are doing."

Hinchey Wants Law Changed

By Jon Powers

NEW PALTZ

When state conservation officers arrived at a New Paltz ranch Wednesday, cut a chain, tranquilized a domesticated deer, and then forcibly removed the animal without a warrant or court order, they were apparently acting within the laws.

But it's a law that Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey (D-101st. Dist.) thinks should be changed. "They obviously stepped beyond the bounds of the intention of the law," said Hinchey, "but if their actions were not illegal, they were certainly unethical, improper and entirely unnecessary."

Section 71-0907 of the New York State Environmental Conservation Law empowers conservation enforcement officers, "To seize as evidence without warrant any (wildlife) ... whenever they have cause to believe it is possessed or transported in violation of the law."

Section 71-0525 give conservation enforcement officers the right to search any property, expect a dwelling, without a search warrant if there is reason to believe that the law is being violated, and that the officers "may use such force as may be necessary for the purpose of examination and search."

"I think it is important that we take a close look at that section of law," said Hinchey, "and make whatever attempts are necessary to have its provisions more clearly defined."

"The idea of coming on a man's property, and destroying that property in the process, is contrary to our basic principals of law. We have to make sure that this doesn't happen again."

Hinchey offered no criticisms of the conservation officers themselves; he said they were obviously "told to do a job and they did it." He said that "someone at a higher level will have to bear the responsibility for this unfortunate incident."

Jack LaFalce, who raised the 11-month-old deer from infancy, and who unsuccessfully tried to prevent police and conservation officers from taking possession of the deer Wednesday, has said he will not let the matter drop, and has indicated he may file suit. In the meantime, however, he must answer police charges himself.

LaFalce was arrested Wednesday afternoon and charged with obstructing governmental administration following the fracas with police. A fatality friend, 17-year-old Jill Lawton, was charged with second degree assault for allegedly scratching a police officer. Both are scheduled for an appearance in New Paltz Town Court tonight.

It was shortly after conservation officers from leaving the small compound where the deer had been penned, but was subdued by two troopers. Later, LaFalce tried to wrestle the crate off the back of a moving pickup truck.

The conservation officers were ordered to take the deer to the Cranberry Mountain State Game Preserve in Dutchess County, where it was their intention to reintroduce the domesticated animal to its natural, wild habitat. By the time they arrived, the deer had died.

An autopsy was performed by a state pathologist in Albany, and he ruled that the doe choked to death on regurgitated undigested food. A spokesman for the DEC said the cause of regurgitation was "stress."

State officials have agreed to return the deer's body to the LaFalce ranch, where it will be buried.

Koenig, Gallo Nominated For Fourth Term

By Hugh Reynolds

KINGSTON

"I am ready. I am willing and I sincerely believe I am able to serve my city again."

Frank Koenig has been making that acceptance speech or something very close to it for the past three terms but to city Democrats who gathered in convention Thursday night at city hall it was welcome news anyway.

And the party's "meal ticket" gave every indication last night of waging the type of hard-driving campaign that has carried him (and a good many Democrats with him) to victory with some 70 percent of the vote the past three elections.

The clincher was when Koenig said his family had urged him to seek an unprecedented fourth straight term. It is no secret in city politics that the mayor's campaigns are very much "family affairs." The mayor's parents and his brothers form the nucleus of his campaign team and as more than one candidate pointed out last night, few candidates can continue in office for any period of time without the support of their wives.

Koenig said he had discussed the campaign with his family and that their support was a key factor in his decision. "I would not be standing here this evening if it were not for them," he said.

Koenig and his running mate, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo were nominated by Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, a county legislature from the city. Dr. Gorman is not seeking reelection.

He referred to them as "two great men" who had met city problems and solved them. "Koenig and Gallo know these problems," he said. "They have not tried to tell us we have a utopia. We have a good city and we can be proud of it."

'United We Stand, United We Go ... Forward'

"These men are champions. These men are capable. These men are knowledgeable," Gorman declared at one point.

Koenig's acceptance speech went along the same lines, emphasizing his experience in office, the complexity of local government in modern times and his efforts to identify and deal with problems.

The mayor cited four areas of accomplishment during his past term: mini-buses, charter revision, work on the uptown swimming pool, the north-south arterial and the Hadler Nursing Home in Broadway East.

Koenig noted that all those projects had been paid for with state and federal money (the swimming pool is being built with state money and a grant from the Andretta Foundation) at no cost to city taxpayers.

He also bemoaned the amount of "red tape" in getting other projects off the ground.

Gallo spoke briefly, ending with "United we stand. United we go ... forward."

Nominations for aldermen were as expected with all the incumbents gaining renomination.

The Third Ward slot will be filled by Frank DiPietro of 17 Washington Avenue. The 42-year old IBM engineer has been a resident of the ward for 17 years and has been active in the campaigns of Koenig, Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, Gov. Carey and Paul Mills, the candidate for alderman in the word the past two times. Mills nominated DiPietro.

The rest of the aldermanic ticket include John Coffey (First Ward), Joseph McGrane (Second), Clarence Stoutenberg (Fourth), John Finch (Fifth), Donald Quick (Sixth), James Howard (Seventh), Emilio Primo (Eighth), Philip DeCicco (Ninth), Clifford Sin-sabaugh (10th), Daniel Smith (11th), Majority Leader Peter Mancuso (12th), and Henry Dreiser (13th).

Legislative candidates include incumbents John Dwyer, Eugene Perry, Larry Kithcart and James Gilpatrick along with newcomers Kathleen Quick and Donald Gregory.

Vogt: Prison as Deterrent Underrated

By Matt Spireng

KINGSTON

Prison, as a deterrent to continued criminal activity "is very much underrated," and probationary sentences "can be overdone," said District Attorney Francis J. Vogt in reaction to a Freeman series completed Thursday concerning post-conviction decisions and action in the criminal justice system in Ulster County.

Conceding that it may be true that 90 percent of those in Ulster County who are placed on probation instead of being given jail or prison terms complete their probationary periods without being violated for breaking rules of probation and without being arrested for new crimes, Vogt said, "Many of those individuals do commit crimes again after getting off probation."

And, according to Vogt, many of those who are placed on probation may be committing crimes while on probation.

Citing information received from informants, Vogt said, "I would have to say that many of these individuals on probation are committing crimes."

I don't mean to deprecate the work the probation department does; they do a fine job," he added. "I'm all in favor of probation, but I don't think probation alone is the answer."

"I do think it can be overdone," the district attorney told the Freeman, explaining that although such is not the case at present in Ulster County. "I do think at one time it was abused."

On the other hand, prison as a deterrent is very much underrated, according to Vogt, who said it is "such a horrible experience" that once having a taste of it most offenders don't want to go back.

"I have talked to a lot of people who have been in prison, and for the most part they feel that way," he said.

Taking an opposing viewpoint from that expressed previously by Ulster County Probation Department Director Stephen E. Morris, Vogt said he does not feel there are a lot of people in prison who do not belong there.

Vogt cited the typical case in which the offender receives a jail or prison sentence as one involving a person who got into trouble as a juvenile, was treated as a youthful offender when he reached the age of 16 and, when he reaches age 19 "you'll find him still getting into trouble. But that is (under the law) his first offense, and many times he'll receive probation."

Such an individual "who has received three breaks" should go to jail, according to the district attorney.

Asked about the view that those sent to prison come out worse than they went in, Vogt said he does not fully agree. "I'll concede that prisons leave much to be desired by way of rehabilitation, but I do feel prison is effective as a deterrent," he said. "The same type who go to prison and come out worse are the ones who wouldn't make it on parole or probation ... or anything else. There are certain types of individuals who you can't do anything with."

"There is no question about it: recidivism is a major problem. We see the same people again and again," he said.

Asked his views on the laws and rules which allow offenders to leave prisons or jails sometimes long before their maximum sentences are up, Vogt said, "I think sentencing should be changed to reflect the time the person sentenced is actually going to do in prison."

Critical of the state legislature, Vogt termed apparent long sentences "a sop to the general public to give them the impression an offender is getting a long sentence whereas he is not."

I don't think that's being quite honest," he said.

Midnight, in black cat tradition, savors such ill omens as spilled salt, broken mirror and wrong side of ladder in observance of the first Friday the 13th in 1975. Superstition dictates that this will be an unlucky day. However with a reasonable display of caution and avoidance of the bad luck symbols assembled in the photo, we may make it through the day. ## They Call It 'Fear City'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Offduty police and fireman began distributing pamphlets in several locations today describing New York as "Fear City" and warning tourists to watch out for their safety, particularly on public transit buses and subways.

The action, designed as a protest against impending layoffs of police and firemen, was staged despite temporary court orders prohibiting it. Leaders of the police and firemen's unions said they had not received official court papers by the time the pamphleteering began.

However, the city's top lawyer, Corporation Counsel W. Bernard Richland, said today he considered the court orders already served through the vast publicity given the unions' plans.

The pamphlets were being handed out at several locations, including Kennedy Airport, where the cops and firemen were kept behind barricades as are any groups of demonstrators.

The temporary restraining order said the scheme "endangers the safety and security of New Yorkers" and "threatens the economic well-being of the city."

'Water, Water Everywhere' . . . Town of Ulster Problem

By Carl Graham

KINGSTON Water—too much in some places, not enough in others—was the principal topic at Thursday night's meeting of the Ulster Town Board.

As a driving rainstorm furnished an appropriate background, the board heard a long list of complaints about excess surface water. A group that had previously petitioned for something to be done about drainage from Route 199 near the Rhinebeck Bridge approach was told by Supervisor Carmine Sabino that the Department of Transportation (DOT) will investigate and that State Senator Edwyn E. Mason (R-48th Dist.) had asked petitioners to write to him individually.

Robert Buckley complained about water from City View

Terrace coming onto Garlock Road. Sabino said that the road had been installed without town permission and that an easement was needed to install a pipe or ditch to carry the water to Route 209. Sabino also pointed out that he and his brother own the property where much of the work would have to be done, saying he wanted it clearly understood before work begins.

Councilmen Edward Crosby and Anthony Cicoria volunteered to visit the area Sunday for an inspection.

Harold White complained about runoff water from Neighborhood Road flooding the Mary Avenue-Shuler Lane area. White also said the contractor who installed sewer lines there failed to repair driveways. Sabino set up a meeting with the contractor and town engineer for Friday, June 20, to discuss the problems.

A Halycon Park resident said property owners were filling in drainage ditches and creating surface water problems. Sabino said no provision was made for drainage easement there and that when a new highway superintendent is named he will discuss it with him.

A Codwise Street resident also complained about surface water backing up there. Sabino said he had discussed it with DOT and the water is supposed to be piped past Sunset Gardens to run eventually into the Esopus Creek.

Steve Conti, an announced candidate for highway superintendent in November, suggested that the board appoint a committee to consider drainage problems for the whole town. "It's a major problem and it's not going to get any better," he said. "We need a major plan for storm drainage." Sabino said the idea had been proposed previously but that there had been no money available for a study.

Water was indirectly involved in another board decision as councilmen regretfully turned down Robert Post's suggestion that his Boy Scouts be allowed to paint fire Hydrants red, white and blue for the coming Bicentennial. The hydrants are already color-coded to indicate the size of water lines they are connected to, the board explained.

The problem at Hillside Acres is a lack of water, more specifically a lack of Kingston city water. Noting that developer William Zang's long-pending lawsuit to obtain city water had been dismissed, the board voted to set up a meeting with Mayor Francis R. Koenig and the city water board to see if the problem could be resolved.

"We are asking for water, the city is asking for backing on the landfill problem," Crosby said. "It's time to stop thinking about petty jealousies when these people are 30 feet from water."

The board voted approval of Phase Two of Herbert Winnie's trailer park on Ed-dyville Road. The action came after a long wrangle between Winnie and board members.

Winnie charging that Town Justice Sherwood Davis (not present at the meeting) had made it a political issue. Sabino told Winnie to "keep politics at home" when Winnie quoted Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey (D-101st Dist.) as supporting his position and Cicoria angrily denied that politics was involved.

In other action, the board:

• Referred to the town attorney Mrs. Helen Hayer's request that a tree near her home off Leggs Mills Road be cut down by the town because it was on town property.

Brief Discussion

TOWN OF ULSTER
Anyone who came to Thursday night's Ulster Town Board meeting expecting to learn something new about the involvement of Supervisor Carmine Sabino and Highway Superintendent Edgar Elliott in an investigation by the Ulster County District Attorney's office went away disappointed.

The matter came up briefly as the board got down to business. Town Clerk Robert Morehouse read Elliott's previously publicized letter of resignation and officially notified the board that it would have to meet some time before June 30, when the resignation is effective, to name a replacement.

Neither Sabino or board members made any other reference to the matter and no definite date was set for a meeting.

The tiny town hall was jammed to capacity, but most of those present were concerned with drainage problems and left after the board had heard their complaints.

Teachers Seek Unemployment Benefits

Thousands of school teachers in at least 10 states are trying to collect unemployment benefits during their summer vacations.

The teachers hope to capitalize on a loophole left dangling in federal unemployment legislation President Ford signed in December. Congress has agreed to refine the language of the original bill, and Ford will certainly approve the change.

But the amendment changing the unemployment bill is written into a supplemental appropriations bill still unresolved between the House and Senate. If it is not passed, it could cost the government more than $15 million in unemployment benefits each week.

A state official in California said 100,000 teachers are expected to apply for unemployment benefits of up to $90 per week. Any benefits paid to teachers would be borne by the federal government under provisions of the Supplemental Unemployment Assistance Act of 1974.

But Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill., who has sponsored the amendment to prevent the federal treasury from financing teachers' vacations, warned states who honor the unemployment claims they may not be reimbursed once Congress corrects its mistake. Sources in Washington said the supplemental appropriations bill should be ready for the President's signature no later than next week.

The assistant director of unemployment insurance in Louisiana, Carl Brewster, said 21,000 claims already had been filed by teachers and other school employees, "and I would guess that there are about another 21,000 claims out in our regional offices."

In Missouri, 4,600 of the 15,000 teachers in the St. Louis area have signed up for benefits of $85 per week, and state workers said 1,200 more applicants have been filing their claims every day this week.

Thelma Eise, claims supervisor for one suburban office, said, "I'm just trying to figure out how many teachers live in this area. They're multiplying like rabbits."

Another 12,000 teachers have applied for benefits in Arkansas.

Other states that have interpreted the federal legislation in a way that benefits teachers include Illinois, Vermont, Indiana, Washington and Mississippi. Oklahoma has handled 4,500 claims, but the state Employment Security Commission plans to classify teachers ineligible to collect benefits.

Woody Lee of the Illinois Education Association said many of those applying are teachers who normally would have had summer jobs but could not find extra work this year.

"Teachers own homes, pay taxes, they pay expenses. Why shouldn't they reap the benefits the same as other citizens?" Lee said. "Are they more or less than other citizens?"

"It is absolutely ludicrous," Oklahoma Gov. David Boren said. "The people of this state will not put up with it."

The Supplemental Unemployment Assistance Act leaves the definition of unemployment up to the states.

Some states have had existing legislation denying teachers the opportunity of claiming benefits during their summer vacations. Other states that noted the discrepancy in the 1974 federal act took steps earlier this year to eliminate the loophole.

New York's director of unemployment insurance, Harold Kasper, said school teachers are considered year-round employees, whether or not they have tenure in their jobs or any other type of contract guaranteeing continued employment.

North Carolina passed a law exempting teachers from the benefits of the federal act earlier this year. Alabama's legislature, during a recent special session devoted to unemployment benefits, approved rules eliminating teachers' loopholes.

Even if teachers are paid for only nine months of the year — many localities pay teachers over the 12-month calendar year rather than during school session only — an Idaho official said, the teachers are not unemployed during the summer because there has been no break in the employer-employee relationship.

Michigan's Employment Security Commission said it has always considered the summer vacation a "period of denial" for teachers and ruled they are ineligible for benefits.

State GOP Fails to Endorse Rocky

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York State's Republican organization has formally endorsed President Ford for the party's national ticket in 1976, but held off on extending similar backing to a favorite son, Vice President Rockefeller, after Rockefeller said it might look too pushy.

A grateful Rockefeller told 200 GOP State Committee members and guests at a luncheon Thursday that "I appreciate tremendously your recognition of my sensitivity on this matter."

"I don't know anything about whether I'll be the vice presidential candidate or not," Rockefeller said. "But I do know that I didn't want to see the New York Republican party put pressure on the President."

State Republican Chairman Richard Rosenbaum said the former New York governor expressed the same sentiments in a letter last month after he had told Rockefeller of the committee's desire to endorse him.

Rosenbaum denied opposition from party conservatives was in any way involved in withholding the Rockefeller endorsement.

Underscoring the limits to conservative influence in the state Republican organization was the GOP refusal to endorse Sen. James Buckley for reelection in 1976.

Rosenbaum, at a $150-a-plate GOP fundraiser Thursday night, said "the jury is still out on Sen. Buckley," who won in 1970 on the Conservative party line and who has joined with other leaders of the Republican party's right wing in calling for an "open convention" next year.

The dinner, attended by some 2,000 persons, featured declarations of optimism on the party's prospects for rebuilding the party shattered last year by Watergate.

Another Trial Looms For Evers

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Civil rights leader Charles Evers, whose income tax evasion trial ended in a mistrial Thursday, apparently will be tried a second time.

Justice Department attorney Michael Ahlen announced shortly after U.S. District Judge Dan Russell Jr. declared the mistrial that the government "is fully prepared and awaiting a new trial whenever a new trial date is set by the court."

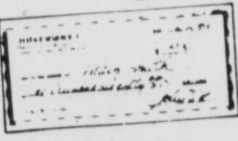

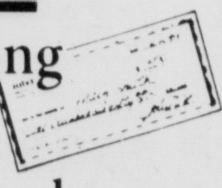

The four-day-old trial was aborted after an Internal Revenue Service agent suggested from the witness stand that the black Fayette, Miss., mayor's 1968 congressional campaign might have been the source of undisclosed income.

Defense attorney Michael Fawer of New Orleans branded the statement "an outrage" and moved for a mistrial on grounds the IRS had not mentioned campaign contributions in its allegations or in briefs filed with the court.

The civil rights leader and his former wife were indicted last August on charges of evading income taxes during 1968, 1969 and 1970. Testimony by an IRS agent accused the couple of failure to report income totaling $161,409 and evading $48,177 in taxes during the three-year period.

Aerosol Eating Ozone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government panel said Thursday there is "legitimate cause for serious concern" that gases from aerosol sprays are eating away at the earth's protective ozone layer, creating a possible cancer hazard.

Unless the release of the gases is stopped, it said, there could be thousands of additional cases of skin cancer around the world each year.

It recommended a ban on the use of fluorocarbon gases in aerosol spray products within three years — even if that means some aerosol products will disappear from the market.

Fluorocarbons are the propellant gas for about 60 percent of the aerosol products sold in the United States. More than 90 percent of those are hair sprays, deodorants and other personal care products.

The report is the work of 14 government agencies organized into a task force last year after scientists first raised the possibility that depletion of the ozone layer could allow harmful doses of ultraviolet radiation from the sun to reach the earth.

Ozone is a gas, a molecular cousin of oxygen, found in a layer 15 to 30 miles above the Earth's surface, and it filters the amount of ultraviolet sunlight reaching the ground.

The Natural Resources Defense Council, which had petitioned the government to ban aerosol sprays on the basis of warnings by scientists, criticized the report as being too weak.

"The evidence they cite indicates that for every year's delay you'll have an additional about 2,000 extra cases of skin cancer in the United States every year," said Thomas Stoel, a lawyer for the group. "We think that's just too big of a risk."

"We see no reason why the federal regulatory action shouldn't be taken right away, with the possibility of aborting it if further studies turn up something different," he said.

The report recommended holding off on the start of government regulation until next spring, when a separate study by the National Academy of Sciences is complete. But for the moment, it said, its own intensive five-month study had concluded:

"More research is required and will be undertaken, but there seems to be legitimate cause for serious concern."

Sex In Russia

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union, once a citadel of puritan virtue, is undergoing a sexual revolution.

Premarital sex, out-of-wedlock children, extra-marital affairs, common law marriages and divorces are becoming an increasing part of Soviet life.

These are the conclusions of a survey published Wednesday by the monthly journal Nash Sovremennik, a potpourri of literature and weighty sociological articles.

The findings aren't much of a revelation to Soviet citizens, but such a frank discussion of sexual permissiveness is a rarity in the government-controlled Soviet press.

The magazine said a survey of Leningrad students showed 53 percent of the men interviewed engaged in sex before the age of 18. Women started later, but 65 percent said they began premarital sex lives before the age of 21.

A survey of sex attitudes among students and scientific workers in Leningrad showed an overwhelming majority of men and women favored premarital sex. About 15 percent were opposed and 15 percent said they were "indifferent."

"The conclusion of a legal marriage has stopped being the condition of sexual life," the magazine said.

The survey reported that a majority of married women in Leningrad said they no longer love their husbands and they favored extra-marital love affairs as a solution.

The magazine also cited a large increase in the number of illegitimate births.

'Become Involved In Community's Economy'

NEAL C. MOYLAN

KINGSTON — Neal L. Moylan, former commissioner of the New York State Commerce Department, emphasized the need for continued and intensive industrial development in order to stimulate New York State's economic recovery, at the first in a planned series of Partners in Progress breakfasts sponsored Thursday by Kingston Trust Co. (The Bank).

Moylan, who said he resigned his state post "per force" in December with the arrival of the new Democratic administration in Albany, now serves as a vice-president for First Commercial Banks, Inc. (FCBI), of which Kingston Trust is a member bank.

Moylan's address Thursday at the Kingston Manor House (formerly the Kirkland Hotel) stressed the need for community leadership and involvement in the development of new industrial and job opportunities. He urged the estimated 100 businessmen present at the breakfast "to become involved in the total economy of your community," and warned that, without a concentrated industrial development effort, local centers of industry could be faced with the same dilemmas confronting New York City.

"The competition for new jobs and new businesses is becoming tougher and tougher," said Moylan. "As a result, local community leadership must become more and more competitive."

Moylan noted that a number of significant steps have been taken to attract new industrial development opportunities to the state; in particular, he emphasized the contributions of the state Job Development Authority, (JDA), which Moylan was instrumental in strengthening while he served as commerce commissioner.

Moylan noted that since June, 1962, more than 650 second mortgage loans totaling $88 million have been granted through the JDA to firms building or expanding facilities in the state.

"JDA is increasingly important these days for firms thinking of expansion," said the former commissioner.

But Moylan emphasized that there are many varied problems facing the state's economy that should be addressed at the local level. One "singularly tough problem" cited by the commissioner was "industrial obsolescence": the deterioration or stagnation of facilities and industries that have limited room for expansion because of poor initial planning. "It is a problem that must be addressed in the days ahead," he said.

Despite the inherent difficulties in attracting new industrial opportunities to New York, Moylan expressed optimism that there will be an economic upturn in the months ahead. He said that there are indicators—a net gain in manufacturing jobs in New York last year, a rise in orders for durable and non-durable goods and a decline in surplus inventories—which point to a revitalized economy.

Thursday's first Partners in Progress breakfast, according to Kingston Trust President William H. Stevens, represents the bank's recognition that the financial community and the business community "must work to grow and prosper together." Future meetings to explore common problems will be held, he said.

Youth Bureau Hearing Slated

KINGSTON

A public hearing on a local law creating a youth bureau for the county of Ulster will be set for July 10 at 3 p.m. in the legislative chambers of the County Office Building. The legislature is expected to take action setting the date at its Thursday meeting.

If reaction to the establishment of the bureau is favorable, action on creating it will probably follow the public hearing when the county board meets later that same day in 4 and 8 p.m. sessions.

The permanent bureau will recommend and put into effect those measures most suitable to supplement and aid in coordinating the work and activities of all public and private agencies; also, religious and social institutions. Its purpose will be the prevention of juvenile delinquency and youth crime and the advancement of moral, physical and mental and social well being of the youth of the county.

The bureau will consist of 15 members, to be appointed by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savano (R-Dist. 8). They may not be members of any other county or state office.

The members, who will be known as commissioners, will receive no compensation.

Of the first members appointed, five will be named for one-year terms, five for two-year terms and five for three-year terms. Thereafter, all new commissioners will be named for three-year terms.

Cheers From Mason On Carey Tax Statement

ALBANY

State Senator Edwin E. Mason (R-48th) hasn't had much to cheer about concerning the Carey Administration, except for last Wednesday.

That was the day Gov. Hugh Carey, in an off the cuff remark admitted he was giving up his fight for new taxes to the tune of some $500 million.

In supporting the governor on his (the governor's) most recent reversal, Mason, an arch-conservative, reminded the chief executive of his campaign pledges to cut taxes followed by his demand for massive increases—blaming it on previous fiscal irresponsibility by Republican administrations—and then admitting that his administration would "Have to see what we can do without new taxes."

"I have steadfastly maintained we don't need any additional taxes," Sen. Mason said. "If this state is going to prosper, we've got to avoid new taxes and maintain an attitude of fiscal frugality. New taxes would only mean a continued adverse affect on the state's economy, and add more handicaps to our citizens.

"In order to get along without additional state taxes, we've got to eliminate waste, duplication and fancy extras, and learn to live within our income."

Mason said a good place to start might well be to eliminate "posh, taxfree homes" for state university presidents, prison wardens and other state officials which are not only free to the occupants but are maintained by state personnel. "We ought to also start cutting out a host of needless luxury programs like the State Council on the Arts which now costs $36 million a year," he said.

"The continued upward spiral of taxes in this state have made the people of New York the most heavily taxed in the nation—a fact I have repeated over and over."

The Deer Case

The saga of the New Paltz deer, ending on the tragic note it did, has left many questions unanswered. Now that Environmental Conservation Commissioner Ogden Reid has decided to fully investigate this unsavory incident perhaps the general public will learn:

- Why a domesticated deer, thriving and happy in its captive environment, was arbitrarily classified a wild animal and forcibly returned to its 'natural' habitat?
- Why are not conservation officers subject to the same legal restrictions binding police officers, i.e. the necessity for court orders or search warrants before they can intrude upon a citizen's land?
- Is Jack LaFalce, the deer's owner who raised it from infancy, going to be reimbursed for the destruction of his property, namely a chain link fence that was cut?

The fundamental principle of a man's home being his castle is involved here. If one governmental agency has the right to invade private property without a legal document, what's to stop the practice from spreading? Granted LaFalce acted improperly in domesticating the deer, legalistically termed "state property," but the question of the rights of citizens also is involved. LaFalce, moreover, had asked for an official hearing to determine whether he could keep the animal, but this also was denied him.

Commissioner Reid has told the Freeman that he will issue "new instructions to prevent the same thing from happening again." It is a start which hopefully will end with curbing the free rein hitherto given over-conscientious conservation officers.

Asian Role

The remarks made recently by Philippine leaders about reducing their reliance upon the United States are calculated to open a discussion about the role of our military bases there.

What has happened in Southeast Asia may not confirm the now-discredited "domino theory" but it plainly indicates that the independent governments in that region are asserting their right to change their foreign policy to reflect changing circumstances.

Thailand, which borders on Cambodia and Laos, has demanded that all American troops be removed. The Philippines, separated from Vietnam by more than 500 miles of the South China Sea and linked to the United States by close ties since the Spanish-American War, have reacted less urgently.

Still, a reappraisal is inevitable and is in order on both sides of the relationship between the U.S. and the Philippines.

There may be good reason on both sides to ake it ore of an arm's-length relationship.

But the Philippine bases are more important than ever to our forward defense line in the Western Pacific. And the U.S. military presence may be more important than ever to the national security of the Philippines.

A realistic reappraisal should strengthen the relationship by bringing it closer to present-day realities.

WASHINGTON—For the comfort and convenience of vacationing bigwigs, the National Park Service maintains rustic chalets at two of the nation's most scenic sites.

Both lodges are closed to the ordinary taxpayers who are obliged to seek public accommodations or pitch their tents. Only the privileged few are admitted to Brinkerhoff House overlooking Jackson Lake, Wyo., at the foot of the majestic Grand Teton mountains, or to Camp Hoover deep in the forests of Shenandoah National Park.

The Natinal Park Service zealously protects the privacy of the distinguished guests who stay at these idyllic hideaways. But we have obtained copies of the star-studded guest registers from both lodges.

A number of notables, ranging from CBS's Walter Cronkite to Utah's Gov. Cal Rampton, have holed up at fabulous

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Plush Hostels Reserved for Notables

Brinkerhoff House, with its great stone fireplace, stately beamed ceilings and picture windows opening on breathtaking views.

One enthralled guest, Rep. Teno Roncalio, D-Wyo., was moved to write prophetically in the guest registry: "Worth Jack Anderson's Abuse!" Another, Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., found both the scenery and the nominal chappes "awe-inspiring and relaxing."

Prominent Washington attorney George V. Allen Jr., referring to the trout that inhabit the cold, clear mountain streams, wrote happily that "Fish creek yielded an 18-inch cutthroat today."

Cronkite, who brought three of his family with him, apparently had the lodge opened especially for him in mid-winter. They spent a five-day Alpine vacation beneath the craggy, snow-capped peaks during the New Year, 1974, holiday. Cronkite left no comments in the registry, but he told us his access to the lodge had been wholly "innocent."

Among the others who signed in at Brinkerhoff House were Reps. B.F. Sisk, D-Calif., John Jarman, R.-Okla., and Federal Communications Commissioner Rex Lee.

Camp Hoover in the picturesque Shenandoah woodlands was a favorite retreat for White House aides, who sought to get away from the tribulations of the Watergate scandal in 1973 and 1974.

Among those whose names appear on the register are Curtis Herge, who collected illegal contributions for President Nixon; Clay Whitehead, who cracked down on the TV networks for Nixon; H.R. Haldeman's cup bearer, Larry Higby; and Nixon hatchetman Fred Malek.

Two of the good guys of the Watergate days, former Attorney General Elliott Richardson and his sidekick, William Ruckelshaus, also visited the lodge.

Grumped one official about the pampered few who stay at the exclusive hideaways: "They make enough money to scratch for lodgings like the rest of us."

Footnote: The rules supposedly limit the use of the lodges to "Members of Congress and presidential appointees." But in practice, the cronies of the mighty also have wangled VIP keys.

CIA COVERUP: Former CIA chief John McCone now has acknowledged a story he denied to us more than four years ago.

In January, 1971, we reported that the CIA had recruited two underworld figures, Sam Giancana and John Roselli, to plan the assassination of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

We identified their CIA contacts as William Harvey and James "Big Jim" O'Connell. The CIA was put in touch with the underworld triggermen, we reported, by billionaire Howard Hughes' former Nevada honcho, Robert Maheu.

The plotters are now being hauled behind closed doors of the Select Senate Intelligence Committee to tell what they know. McCone emerged after three hours of secret testimony to admit cautiously to the press that plots, indeed, had been sanctioned to kill Castro.

This was the opposite of what he told us in 1971. "No plot was authorized or implemented" to assassinate Castro, he told us. We went ahead with the story anyway, and now McCone has acknowledged we were right.

"The plot to knock off Castro," we reported on Jan. 18, 1971, "began as part of the Bay of Pigs operation. The intent was to eliminate the Cuban dictator before the motley invaders landed on the island. Their arrival was expected to touch off a general uprising which the Communist militia would have had more trouble putting down without the charismatic Castro to lead them."

Yet even after the Bay of Pigs, we reported, assassination teams continued to try to eliminate Castro until the end of February, 1963. "Nine months later," we noted, "President Kennedy was gunned down in Dallas by Lee Harvey Oswald, a fanatic who previously had agitated for Castro in New Orleans and had made a mysterious trip to the Cuban Embassy in Mexico City."

Among those privy to the CIA conspiracy, there is still a nagging suspicion—unsupported by the Warren Commission's findings—that Castro became aware of the U.S. plot upon his life and somehow recruited Oswald to retaliate against resident Kennedy.

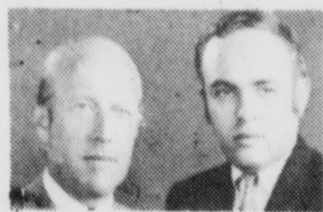

The Senate committee is also investigating this intriguing possibility that the CIA attempts to kill Castro may have backfired against President Kennedy in Dallas.

No less than the late President's brother, Robert, and successor, Lyndon Johnson, were deeply conscious of this unproved possibility.

TOKYO — Unspoken but pervasive post-Vietnam doubts about how long the U.S. military will remain in the Western Pacific is bringing the Japanese establishment to grips with the hard reality that this nation could find itself utterly defenseless — a realization with ominous implications for Japan and East Asia.

The immediate result has been a quiet change among government leaders in cautiously advocating modest increases in Japan's defense. Beyond that is increasing private talk within the establishment that Japan must now consider major rearmament.

But any increased defense activity, modest or major, runs counter to overwhelming public hostility. In a nation that functions by consensus, there is absolutely no consensus for defense. Thus, attempts to enlarge the defense burden strain the fabric of Japanese democracy.

We reported earlier that a Communist conquest of Korea would bring internal turmoil to Japan. But short of that catastrophe, the fall of Vietnam is causing the first widespread consideration here of this question: can an economic superpower continue indefinitely as a military midget?

To maintain its military force of about 250,000 men, Japan spends only 8/10ths of one percent of GNP (compared with nearly 6 percent by the U.S. and 11 percent by the Soviet Union). That tiny expenditure produces an impressive little force: well led, fairly well equipped, with foot soldiers considered the equal of Japan's old imperial army. But there is much less here than meets the eye, thanks to restrictions imposed by Japan's anti-military climate. Since a 1971 mid-air collision between an airliner and a fighter plane, Japanese military aircraft have been so restricted that pilots are inadequately trained. Joint ground and air operations with U.S. forces are prohibited. Most important, the absence of a strategic supply reserve means Japan's armed forces simply cannot fight a war. So, reliance on U.S. forces is total.

None of this seemed likely to be changed by the weak, supposedly caretaker government of Prime Minister Takeo Miki which took office last December. The new defense minister was Michita Sakata, a former minister of education not regarded as a major politician and utterly ignorant of military affairs. Like Miki, Sakata is associated with the left wing of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP), opposing close military collaboration with U.S. forces.

But with the Prime Minister's backing, Sakata has proposed what the LDP's old pro-American conservative stalwarts never dared: joint military planning with the U.S. After the surrender of Saigon, Sakata invited Secretary of Defense James Schlesinger to Tokyo for planning. If Schlesinger cannot come, Sakata added last week, he could go to Washington. Furthermore, under Sakata, important changes — such as 24-hour computerized air defense — may soon be made.

"Unless the Japanese people recognize we must defend out nation by our hands, we cannot make more requests for American help," Sakata told us in an interview, adding that "we must make new efforts in defense." Both Japanese and American military experts feel this attitude is shaped by suspicion over Washington's long-term commitment to Japanese defense.

Behind Sakata's good intentions, however, lurks political reality. While trying hard to put defense spending at 1 percent of GNP, Sakata told us the Diet would not stand for anything higher. But influential elements in Japan are coming to believe that, with the Americans withdrawing, 1.5 percent, 2 percent or even higher is essential — a view so contrary to the consensus that it could produce postwar Japan's most dangerous internal confrontation.

While Japanese businessmen long have opposed defense spending as wastefully unprofitable, some important industrialists have become apprehensive about declining American power. They are deeply concerned that the Sea of Japan is now a Russian lake, Soviet submarines below it and Soviet warplanes above it. One business leader, by no means a nationalist, has so lost faith in U.S. commitments that he feels domestic opposition must be overridden to build a powerful Japanese fleet and air force. Another well-known Japanese figure privately talks of obtaining nuclear missiles.

Besides tearing Japan apart internally, extreme rearmament would destroy the region's power balance and alarm the rest of Asia, including China. Moreover, one Japanese defense expert — Osumu Kaihara, former secretary general of the National Defense Council — feels air and naval spending is "unrealistically grandiose."

Kaihara instead advocates a 10-million-man militia — well-trained, armed with automatic weapons and so clearly defensive that it would not frighten Japan's non-Communist neighbors. Nevertheless, the militia along with Kaihara's other reforms probably would double defense expenditures and therefore also provoke bitter internal struggle.

There are, therefore, inescapable consequences of U.S. withdrawal from the Western Pacific: Japanese rearmament attempts, modest now but growing, which will threaten the stability of Japan and perhaps, all East Asia. That explains the undercurrent of foreboding among more thoughtful Japanese in the wake of the Indochina debacle.

Rearmament Question Splits Japan

The Janitor Gets a Sendoff

Father Tim was the wrong man in the wrong place at the wrong time. He also had the wrong face and the wrong accent. He was a freckled redhead from Brooklyn assigned as pastor to a church near Saluda, South Carolina, where Catholics were as rare, Father Tim said, as boll weevils at the North Pole.

He was pastor, curate, janitor. The church was small, a red-brick building on a rise of lawn among tall soughing pines. He wrote home to his mother in 1938 that he didn't think there were 125 communicants in the whole county—and his parish embraced the whole county.

The first time Father Tim walked down main street, shopping for a lawn mower and food, traffic stopped. He was wearing a black cassock and a biretta. Everybody took a long look.

On Sundays, Father Tim yanked the rope that tolled the melancholy bell in the little tower. A few people came to mass, but the offerings were so scanty that the diocese had to support the church. On warm afternoons, Father Tim sat on a park bench in the shade of an equine statue of a Confederate general.

Some people nodded. Some bid him the time of day. The sheriff sat with Father Tim and played checkers. "People," the sheriff said, "would like to be friendly, but you're a sort of stranger here." The priest said he understood.

The loneliness of the church and the tiny rectory almost shattered the spirit of Father Tim. He advertised in a weekly for a Catholic janitor: "Thirty a week, room and board."

No one responded. The ad ran three weeks. The sheriff found Father Tim in a barber chair getting a trim. "Now look, pastor," he said softly. "You ain't gettin' far with that janitor thing. Folks around here feel sorry. Now I have a drunk in the tank who says he's Catholic. He isn't worth a pinch of dry spit and he has an arrest record stretching clean from Asheville to Charleston. If you think you can straighten him out . . ."

Father Tim turned on the Irish grin. He could as easily have turned on tears. Yes, he'd rehabilitate the drunk. He interviewed a short, aging man with white hair in a cell. The priest made his pitch.

The old man had red-rimmed eyes. He listened. "Now," the drunk said, "I'll make you a counter offer. If you take me in, I want two bottles of beer on my night table every morning, and two in the same place at night."

"I'll cut it down to that. No further, I used to be a Catholic, but I'm not sure what the hell I am now. Give me the beers and 10 a week for myself, and you got yourself a janitor."

It was a contract, something to be honored by both parties. The pity of the Protestants, expressed through their sheriff, brought a flame of joy to Father Tim's heart. He felt that he was accepted.

The old drunk—his real name escapes me—mopped the church aisles with hot water and ammonia, he chipped the wax from inside old vigil lights, e polished pews and mowed the steep lawn. Every morning and every night he found two beers in his little room.

At meals, he debated theology, God and politics with Father Tim. In time, the priest loved the janitor. The argumentative drunk began to attend mass. One Saturday evening, the priest heard the gruff voice of the drunk in confession. He could barely utter the absolution.

One morning, the priest found himself alone at breakfast. He walked up to the drunk's room and opened the door. The beers were full on the night table. The drunk was empty of life.

Father Tim panicked. He had lost his friend. What should he do? He called the sheriff for help. The sheriff called other pastors. At a solemn meeting, they counseled Father Tim to give the bum a decent funeral. "It's the last thing you can do for him," they said.

The priest thought about it. He spent his own savings to get a casket. It wasn't enough. He felt he should give something he might not rate when his own time came.

He phoned his bishop. "If it isn't too much trouble," he said, "I'd like you to stop by Monday. Something's terribly wrong with my bookkeeping. Either we owe the bank $400 or they owe us."

The bishop decided to humor the lonely man. He arrived, studied the books, and found nothing wrong with them. "Ah," said Father Tim. "Thanks be to God for that. Would your excellency please celebrate a solemn high funeral mass for a great man?"

The bishop understood the scheme. "All right," he said, smiling. The drunk went off in a greater style than he had a right to expect. He Might have wondered at a church packed with Protestants and a sheriff in full uniform . . .

Mrs. Gandhi's Congress Party Trowned

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's political fortunes and prestige suffered another major blow today when her ruling Congress party was crushed at the polls in election of a legislature in violence-torn Gujarat State.

Her leadership of India was seriously jeopardized Thursday when a high court convicted her of corrupt election practices in the 1971 national elections and ordered to resign from parliament and the premiership. The court stayed the order for 20 days to permit her to appeal to the Supreme Court.

She called on her supporters today to stand behind her during her gravest political crisis and said she would continue to overcome her difficulties as she has in the past. Political opponents called on her to resign immediately, but she was keeping the nation guessing whether she would remain in office.

As this nation of 600 million was still reeling over Thursday's corruption conviction, returns were made public from the local elections in Gujarat State, showing her Congress party won only 74 seats on the state's 182-member legislative assembly — far short of the majority she deemed crucial to her national image. Adding to the humiliation of the landmark court ruling was the fact that voting in the western coastal state of Gujarat came several days before the court ruling and she had seen it as a test of her national popularity before the national elections, less than a year away.

Mrs. Gandhi campaigned furiously over the past four weeks throughout Gujarat. But her party won only 74 seats and a United Front Coalition swept 87 of the seats. Congress alone among the nine contesting parties fielded a full slate for the elections — 182 candidates for 182 seats.

Her party's defeat was particularly significant since it was the Congress leadership in the state, charged with rampant corruption, that was the target of two months of sustained rioting in Gujarat by student-led mobs which ultimately brought down the government by forcing its resignation early last year.

Eighty-six persons were killed in the rioting and when the government capitulated, the state with a population of 27 million persons was placed under president's rule pending this week's new elections.

The current results contrasted unfavorably with Mrs. Gandhi's popularity during the last Gujarat elections three years ago, when Congress bagged 140 seats in the then 168-member assembly for a clear majority.

In the aftermath of Thursday's high court ruling against her, Mrs. Gandhi left it to the nation to interpret from her remarks whether she would step down as prime minister. The statements she did make seemed to tilt in favor of her retaining the nation's leadership.

"I am never upset or afraid of anything," she told a huge gathering outside her house today. "I do not want to comment on the judgment... We have faced many difficulties together and we shall continue to overcome them unitedly."

The 58-year-old prime minister said Thursday she would not "forsake the people," but she failed to flatly rule out the possibility of a resignation.

Mrs. Gandhi won a 20-day delay before her conviction takes effect. Her lawyers said she will remain in office until then and appeal the ruling to the Supreme Court in New Delhi.

If she loses the appeal, Mrs. Gandhi would have to give up her seat in the lower house of parliament and resign as prime minister within six months. She would also be barred from holding public office for six years.

Addressing a crowd of supporters outside her house Thursday, Mrs. Gandhi vowed, "I shall not forsake the people. I know the poor masses are with me."

"We have faced many challenges in the past and we will continue to face them undaunted. We will continue to march forward on our chosen path and build a new social order."

Opposition politicians demanded the leader of India's 600 million citizens resign, terming her conviction "the Indian Watergate."

British Government Vows To Cut Inflation In Half

LONDON (UPI) — The British government has vowed to cut inflation in half over the next 12 months to combat an economic crisis that has sent the pound plunging to its lowest level in history.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey told Parliament Thursday the government would impose severe economic austerity measures to slow down soaring pay and prices.

British prices are rising at close to 25 percent annually and wages are increasing at up to 35 percent a year, more than double the rates in most other Western countries.

Healey, addressing a worried House of Commons, said the Labor party government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson plans to cut inflation by 50 percent over the next year.

He declined to disclose the details of the government's new economic austerity measures, but said economic officials would consult labor unions and business leaders about the moves.

The pound fell to an all-time low of $2.27 in London Thursday although the British currency recovered slightly before money markets closed at night.

The fall of the pound reflected Britain's worst economic crisis since World War II with unemployment and inflation racing each other to new heights.

The government has said unemployment is likely to top the psychologically sensitive 1 million mark by the end of the year for the first time in three years.

The grim economic picture was darkened further by the threat of a national rail shutdown in ten days by trainmen demanding up to 35 percent in pay increases.

Sidney Weighell, general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, predicted the June 23 walkout would bring London and other big cities to a standstill.

"A few men in key places can cause immense dislocation," Weighell said Thursday. "Large cities such as London will simply come to a stop without rail services."

June Car Sales Show Decrease

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto industry analysts say early June new car sales dropped from the strong May levels that signaled the beginning of the hoped-for spring upturn but still were within 12 percent of last year.

Sales reports scheduled from the four U.S. automakers later today will show deliveries of about 148,000 cars in the June 1-10 period, compared with 168,261 in the period last year, analysts said.

The 12 percent drop is still the closest automakers have come since early March to matching a year-ago performance.

The sales pace was up about 3 percent from early May, but off 20 percent from the entire month when sales jumped higher than most analysts had expected. Analysts say June sales are traditionally lower than May and said the downturn will have to be below the traditional average.

"This year, if we hope to keep our upturn going, we have to sell the same as in May," one auto company analyst said. "That would be some kind of moral victory in Detroit."

Penalty For Gasoline-Guzzling

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has decided on a penalty against gasoline-guzzling automobiles.

Some members praised the action as a signal to Americans that Congress is "serious." Others called it a "creampuff" designed in Detroit.

It was adopted Thursday as part of an energy tax bill which House leaders hoped to finish today.

President Ford, who met with congressional leaders of both parties Wednesday and scheduled another meeting for today, asked Congress to enact a comprehensive bill. Clearly he thinks the House bill is not.

The bill would put quotas on oil imports, tax certain business use of fuels, reward conservation with tax breaks and penalize car manufacturers whose fleets fall short of a miles-per-gallon standard.

The provision approved Thursday sets 18.5 miles a gallon as the standard for 1978 models. Cars could miss that by half a mile per gallon and still escape the penalty. But beyond that, a manufacturer whose fleet average fell short would be fined $5 for each tenth of a mile it fell short.

The $5 would be multiplied by all the autos he manufactured. If his 1978 model average were 17 miles per gallon, he would pay a fine of $50 for each far-reaching legislation. "That bullet you thought would be passed on as a higher you were biting has turned price, so the customer would, into a creampuff," Frenzel contended.

Rep. Philip Sharp, D-Ind., who introduced the provision, said it was a "middle ground" between various proposals.

"This is one of the strongest things left in this bill," Rep. Robert Krueger, D-Tex., said. "I think we need to tell the American people we are serious about doing something."

Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn., said the idea saves hardly any energy. He recalled President Ford had said Congress needed to "bite the bullet" and enact far-reaching legislation. "That bullet you thought would be passed on as a higher you were biting has turned price, so the customer would, into a creampuff," Frenzel contended.

Without much tougher gas mileage requirements, Rep. Joseph Fisher, D-Va., said, "We do not have an energy bill worthy of the name."

Ford had let it be known, through administration energy officials and friendly congressmen, that the tax bill was not palatable without a provision lifting price controls from oil and without strong measures to stimulate domestic production of fuels.

Appointment of Assessor Contested in Marbletown

STONE RIDGE Donald Lafera was appointed to a Marbletown assessor at a meeting of the town board Wednesday night that was described by some as "wild" and "stormy."

The consideration at the center of the controversy was, said Supervisor Kenneth Smith, political. Democrats considered another choice than Lafera should have been made to take the spot on the three-man board that was vacated just last week when Assessor Chairman Benjamin Van Wagenen died.

Lillian Quick, town clerk, said that argument was also concerned with a lack of accord on working hours, as newly appointed chairman Charles Williams works nights and Lafera works days. Smith said this should be "ironed out" in private.

Lafera, a High Falls resident for 18 years and IBM employee for the past 20 years, is an application analyst at the Kingston plant. He has sold real estate for the past three years, has taken a course at Ulster County Community College in real estate, and has worked in construction.

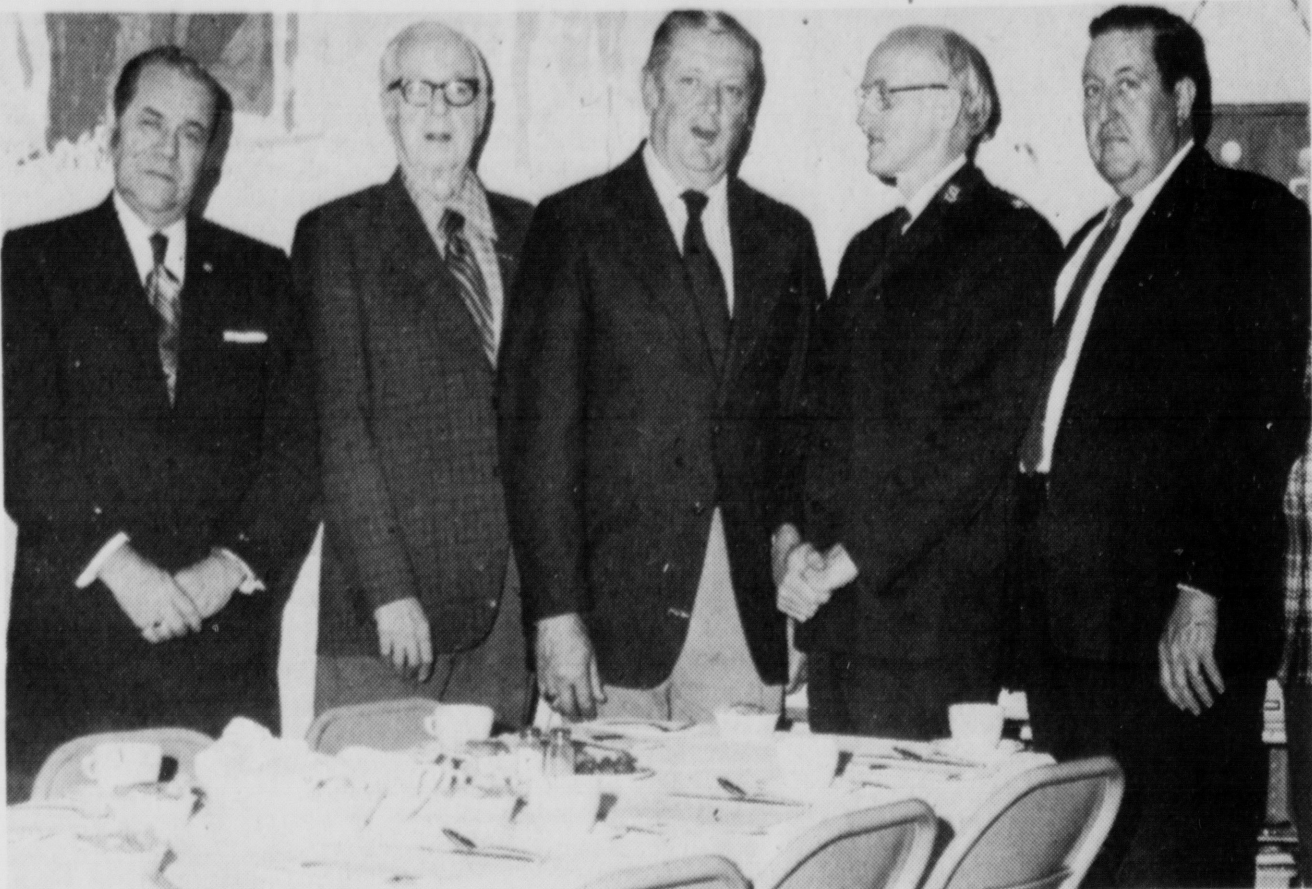

In other town business, it was announced that the recreation park and pool would open June 26 and swimming lessons would begin July 7. Hours when lifeguards will be present are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and noon to 6 p.m. weekends.

Bids were awarded to: Brescia Pole Barns of Montgomery, N.Y. to erect a new highway garage, pole barn style, behind the present town building for $38,895. Work is expected to begin in a week.

Albany Avenue Garage for an International truck, sander and spreader for $20,995; Hudson River Sales Corp. of Poughkeepsie for a $5,625 new sander.

Bids were accepted for the sale of a used truck for $525; a portable air compressor for $310; and used typewriter for $15.

The board appointed Ed Grady to the town bicentennial committee, and announced a paper drive for this Saturday, with residents to deliver their paper for recycling to the town landfill.

Salvation Army officers were recently installed at the annual advisory board dinner. Shown are Harold E. Macholdt (L), second vice chairman; William Blair, chairman; Walter Burger, first vice chairman; Major Stanley Ditmer, who installed the officers; and Henry Eighmey, secretary. Not shown is Mrs. William Krum, treasurer.

Glazer Clarifies Stand On Rosendale Reassessment

ROSENDALE Town of Rosendale Supervisor Richard B. Glazer has issued a statement clarifying his position on the recent updating of assessments in the town.

"Earlier this year," Glazer said, "the three Rosendale assessors completed their effort to update town assessments. Updating is mandated by the state to equalize taxes paid by property owners in accordance with the value of their properties."

"That is, if two persons each own property worth $30,000, their taxes should be equal—one should not pay greater taxes merely because he purchased property more recently, if the values of the properties are equal."

This mandated updating process was carried out by out three assessors, who are elected officials and therefore not responsible to me or the town board. They are responsible only to the citizens of Rosendale. Neither I nor the town board participated in the formulation of assessments. Likewise, we are powerless to change them.

"It is abundantly clear that many persons are dissatisfied with their assessments. They have the guaranteed right to have their assessments reviewed first by the assessors at their public hearings and then by the assessment review board. As supervisor I support this right, and recommend that it be utilized by any property owner who feels aggrieved."

"It is quite possible that our assessors made some mistakes in completing the assessment rolls. Far be it from me or any town official to demand perfection in such a monumental task. Any citizen whose property was overassessed deserves to have his assessment reduced."

"The assessment review board is an independent body, appointed by the town board, with the power and the authority to correct these errors in assessment. I urge all Rosendale property owners who believe they have been treated unfairly to avail themselves of the services of the review board on Grievance Day, June 17th."

Invasion of Killer Bees

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Millions of African killer bees with nasty tempers are steadily advancing northward across the South American continent and threaten to invade North America in the near future.

They already have killed about 200 human beings and thousands of animals.

Some insecticides can kill them, but the African bees are immune to any kind of geographical or weather barrier and are capable of nesting almost anywhere. They have spread throughout Brazil, Argentina, Bolivia, and as far north as French Guiana.

And they are headed relentlessly toward the United States.

"Traveling at about 20 miles a year, they should reach Mexico and the Southern United States within the next seven or 10 years," an official of the Brazilian Agriculture Ministry said.

According to the official, the first human death attributed to the African bees was reported in 1965, nine years after they were first imported to Brazil.

The official said that "since 1965, about 200 persons have died as a result of attacks from African bees and we still continue to receive reports of more victims, especially in the north and northeastern parts of the country."

He said thousands of animals including cattle also have been killed by bees.

It started in 1956 when genetics professor Warwick Estevao Kerr of the School of Medicine of Ribeirao Preto, Sao Paulo, went to Africa to select the best specimens of African bees.

The aggressive African bees are harder workers and produce 25 to 100 percent more honey than the domestic strains originally imported from Europe.

Kerr's idea was to produce a hybrid which would be as gentle as the domestic variety but produce as much as honey as the African specimens.

In 1957, someone accidentally removed the screening around the experimental colony and allowed 26 African queen bees to escape. They interbred with other specimens and produced a technically hybrid bee—but one just as fierce as the African strain.

The new strain, known as the "Brazilian bee" but still referred to as the African bee, rapidly multiplied throughout the country.

According to Kerr, what makes the bees so dangerous is not their venom—no more potent than other specimens—but the fact they are among the most irritable bees known to man and they attack in huge numbers.

A study, prepared by the Agriculture Ministry, shows that, once provoked, an African bee will sting a person or animal an average of 60 times per minute in a nonstop attack that can last up to two hours. Several thousand African bees will pursue a victim for at least 350 feet from their nest.

Three hundred stings from an African bee are sufficient to kill a human being.

The study says the bees go for the victim's neck and face, killing him either by suffocation or with large amounts of venom.

They are easily aroused by noise or any other kind of vibration, the smell of alcohol which they can easily detect on a person, and by anything colored black.

The African bee strongly resembles the American variety. It is slightly smaller but has the same yellowish furry body with light and dark stripes encircling its abdomen.

If a victim is able to, he should get an injection of calcium or adrenalin to counteract the venom, according to Kerr.

Millions of African killer bees with nasty tempers are steadily advancing northward across the the South American continent and threaten to invade North America in the near future. The bees have spread throughout Brazil, Argentina, Bolivia, and as far north as French Guiana. An official of the Brazilian Agriculture Ministry says they should reach Mexico and the southern U.S. "... within the next seven to 10 years." They have already killed about 200 humans. (UPI)

Vote For Lee

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A subcommittee vote has moved Congress to within one step of final action on a request made 110 years ago—to restore citizenship to Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee.

On a 3-to-1 vote, a House judiciary panel Wednesday recommended that Congress end Lee's more than a century as a man without a country.

The ancient request for a pardon and citizenship, which somehow got lost in the 1860s, was approved by the Senate

April 10. The petition now needs approval by two-thirds vote of the House in order to take effect.

Lee, the Confederate commander at such historic battles as Bull Run and Gettysburg, began his quest for restored citizenship two months after surrendering the Confederacy to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant at Appomattox Courthouse in 1865.

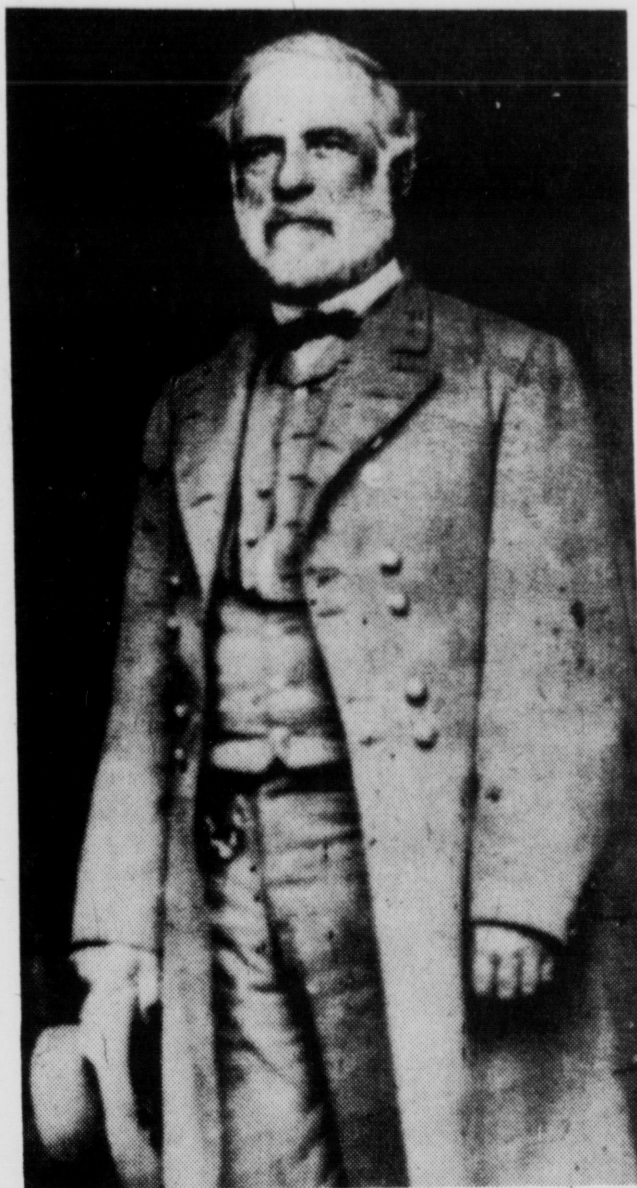

Lee applied on June 13 of that year, but learned the government was demanding an oath of allegiance as a condition for considering such requests from Southern officers.

He took the oath before a notary public in Lexington, Va., on Oct. 2, 1865. But President Andrew Johnson, who until 1868 had the power to issue Civil War pardons and restore citizenship, apparently never received the document Lee mailed to him.

When he died in 1870, the general was the only member of his family whose petition for restoration to citizenship had been ignored.

The 14th Amendment to the Constitution changed the system in 1868 and empowered Congress to pardon disenfranchised officers of rebellions by a two-thirds vote of each house. No presidential approval is necessary.

Lee's petition—perhaps deliberately ignored in the partisan politics of Civil War Reconstruction—was not rediscovered until 1971, when an historian found it among other Civil War papers in the National Archives.

GEN. ROBT. E. LEE

How Lucky Is Lucky?

BOSTON (UPI) — Wedding day is today (Friday the 13th) for Thomas Brennan. But he's not superstitious; he's lucky to be alive.

Brennan, 28, was impaled on a four-inch fence post that pierced his chest May 2 in a car accident.

Five surgeons labored hours to remove the stake. The post, which barely missed large blood vessels next to his heart, protruded three feet from the front of his chest and one foot from his back.

But now, just two days out of the intensive care unit at Boston City Hospital, Brennan announced he's going through with plans to wed. His fiancee, Arlene Sickoll, 25, suffered a broken arm in the accident and will be in a cast for several more weeks.

"Arlene and I made the decision last week," Brennan said from his hospital bed Wednesday. "Our marriage license runs out this Sunday and we don't want to go through the hassle of going through all the tests and getting another license."

Brennan and Miss Sickoll originally had set a wedding date of May 10.

"Arlene called me last week to set the date, and when I told her it would be on Friday the 13th, she said, 'We're not superstitious,'" he said.

"I don't know if I'll be able to make it to the hospital chapel, but if I don't, we'll have it in the room. I've walked a few times since the accident. I can do it again."

EHS Will Graduate 120

ELLENVILLE
Some 120 seniors are expected to be graduated from

Ellenville High School during ceremonies to be held Monday, June 23, at 6 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Named valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, are Ellen Jouce Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pincus Hill, is not only currently a senior at Ellenville High School, but is also enrolled as a freshman at the Stern College for Women of Yeshiva University, where she has been named to the dean's list.

A member of the National Honor Society, and a Regents scholarship winner, she has also won the Russel Sage Award and was secretary and treasurer of the student council.

Miss Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Smith, has been awarded a Regents scholarship, the Bausch and Lomb Award for excellence in science and the Rensselaer Medal for excellence in math and science. She has been a member of the National Honor Society and was literary editor of the 1975 yearbook. She will enter Harpur College next fall, where she will major in biology. The main speaker for the graduation ceremonies will be Senior Class President Jane Rosenstock.

Each year Schneider's Jewelers Inc. of 290 Wall Street, Kingston, awards watches to a boy and girl graduate of Kingston High, John Coleman High, or Ulster Academy. The hands stopped this year on the names listed on the clock of (c) Elisabeth Cahill, 157 Bruyn Avenue and (r) Bryan Hartigan, Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine. Presenting the watches is Roger Scholl of Schneider's. (Freeman photo)

Cancer Crusade Nearing Its Goal

KINGSTON
Ulster County Cancer Crusade for 1975 is nearing its goal of $94,000 with 10 townships still to report. "There are very good indications in some of these that the crusade will again go over the top," according to County Crusade Chairman Robert C. Randall.

The interim report filed by Randall, notes that Shawangunk has exceeded its goal of $1,200 by $148 thus far; Rosendale has reached its goal of $1,000; and Mrs. Frances Turck, advisor for the City of Kingston Cancer Crusade reports that the figures for the city crusade have already surpassed last year's total by more than $800, with some wards still incomplete. There are also good signs that the campaigns in the towns of Ulster and Marbletown are going well and should produce good returns.

Randall said cancer crusaders are still making calls in various areas, delivering a life-saving education pamphlet. People who were not at home at the time of the crusader's call, may send their contributions to the American Cancer Society, 400 Broadway, Kingston, and the donations will be credited to their town or city.

As in previous years, funds collected are used for a wide variety of cancer research, for service to patients, including rehabilitation; public education and professional education for physicians, nurses and dentists on the front lines of the cancer fight.

Expert's Workshop On Newburgh Unrest

NEWBURGH

A reportedly inside look at what caused the racial disturbances in Newburgh last November will be addressed June 14 by Dr. Nathan Wright Jr., an internationally known civil rights authority.

The need for such a workshop on communication among different ethnic groups surfaced from the hearings conducted by the Newburgh Human Rights Commission following the civil disturbances of last fall.

The workshop, entitled "What Makes a Melting Pot?" will be held at Calvary Presbyterian Church, 120 South Street, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. that day. The stated purpose is to improve communications.

Dr. Wright, an Episcopal priest, is a Harvard-trained educator and professor of urban affairs at the SUNY at Albany. Senator Charles Percy speaks of Dr. Wright as "a voice of responsible conservatism." His best known book is "Black Power and Urban Unrest."

Bicentennial Meet

KINGSTON

The Kingston Bicentennial Commission, to meet June 16, will consider such items as plans for a shoreside festival and how the American Indian should be commemorated.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Statewide Savings and Loan Association, 267 Wall Street, Kingston. On the agenda are plans for the shoreside festival in the summer of 1976 in conjunction with the arrival of the New York State Bicentennial Barge; reports from film and parade committees; the Association of Native Americans; and the Vanderlyn Exhibit.

Matlack Making 'Chumps' Out of National's Champs

Jon Matlack is fashioning a career on making "chumps" out of the National League champs.

Matlack, a 25-year-old lefthander for the New York Mets, is generally regarded as one of the top pitchers in the majors in terms of overall talent, but if it were not for his record against the Los Angeles Dodgers, he would be less than a .500 career pitcher.

Matlack made it seven victories in 10 career decisions against Los Angeles Thursday night when he outdueled Don Sutton and stopped the slumping Dodgers on three hits while pitching the Mets to a 2-0 victory. It was Matlack's second triumph in as many decisions against the defending NL champions this season and the victory raised his record to 8-4.

"I feel this is the best game I pitched this year because there were less balls hit with authority," said Matlack. "I always like to pitch against the Dodgers because I know they have a good solid ballclub and I know I can't give in at all. If I do they will take a lot.

"I didn't feel confident early because I wasn't spotting the ball where I wanted until the third inning. I was rushing my curveball, trying to force the issue. But I talked to Tom Seaver before the third inning started and he pointed out that I wasn't properly closing my shoulder. I have great respect for Seaver and (Jerry) Koosman and oftentimes during the game when I have some problem in my pitching delivery, I might go to them to seek advice."

Felix Millan provided Matlack with the batting support he needed by doubling in Wayne Garrett twice. Garrett and Millan hit back-to-back doubles in the sixth inning and Garrett singled and scored from first on a double by Millan in the eighth for the only runs off Sutton, who suffered his fifth loss in 15 decisions.

The victory enabled the Mets to remain a half-game behind Pittsburgh in the NL East while the loss dropped the Dodgers 2½ games behind division leading Cincinnati in the West. Los Angeles has won only 11 of its last 26 games.

In other NL games, Cincinnati routed St. Louis 10-1, Philadelphia beat San Francisco 4-1, Montreal edged San Diego 3-2 in 15 innings, Pittsburgh topped Houston 4-2 and Atlanta nipped Chicago 5-4 in the first game of a doubleheader. The second game was suspended after eight innings with the Braves leading 6-2.

Reds 10, Cardinals 1

Pinch-hitter Joe Morgan delivered a two-run single and pitcher Gary Nolan contributed a two-run double during a seven-run sixth inning that propelled Cincinnati to a rout of St. Louis. Nolan, making a comeback after shoulder surgery last May, went six innings to gain his sixth straight triumph and raise his record to 7-3. The Reds collected 14 hits, including three by Pete Rose.

Phillies 4, Giants 1

Steve Carlton pitched a fourhitter, struck out a season high eight batters and singled in a run to lead Philadelphia over San Francisco. Dave Cash drove in two runs for the Phils with sacrifice flies and Johnny Oates got another run home on a squeeze bunt.

Expos 3, Padres 2

Mike Jorgensen lined a twoout double in the 15th inning to score Pete Mackanin from first base with the winning run as Montreal nipped San Diego. Loser Danny Frisella, the fourth Padre hurler, retired the first two batters in the 15th before walking Mackanin on a 3-2 pitch. Jorgensen, who figured in Montreal's other two runs, followed with a liner to end the marathon. Willie McCovey homered for San Diego.

Pirates 4, Astros 2

Manny Sanguillen's two-out fifth inning single scored Rennie Stennett with the winning run and reliever Larry Demery allowed only three hits over the final four innings to pace Pittsburgh over Houston. Bob Watson homered for the Astros.

Braves 5, Cubs 4

An error by third baseman Bill Madlock let Darrell Evans score with two out in the ninth, giving Atlanta a victory over Chicago in the first game of a doubleheader. Atlanta loaded the bases in the ninth and Madlock booted Larvell Blanks' grounder. Ralph Garr and Dave May homered for the Braves while Andre Thornton connected for the Cubs. The Braves scored three runs in the eighth inning of the second game, two of them coming home on a double by pitcher Carl Morton. The game was suspended until Aug. 9 under a NL curfew that would enable the Cubs to make transportation arrangements back to Chicago.

SPORTS TODAY

Aaron's Starting to Learn Pitchers

Hank Aaron is finding American League pitchers much more to his liking the second time around.

Aaron, whose sub-.200 batting average most of the early season hasn't scared too many of his new AL pitching rivals, met Vida Blue for the second time Thursday night and the result—a homer, a double, a single and two RBIs—may be a prelude of things come from here on out.

"It's just been a matter of my learning the pitchers in a new league," said the 41-year old Aaron, whose 3-for-3 night lifted his average from .199 to .212 and played a major part in the Milwaukee Brewers' 9-7 win over the Oakland A's. "Like Vida Blue tonight—it was the second time I've seen him and now I know a little more of what to expect from him.

"It's always tougher for the batter to learn the pitchers but before this season's out, I'll get even with all of 'em."

Aaron's homer, his sixth this season and record 739th lifetime, came leading off the fifth inning and was his first in Milwaukee County Stadium since Sept. 30, 1965. In addition, he singled and scored in the first and doubled home another run in the second.

The Brewers put the game away with four runs in the seventh on George Scott's two run homer and Gorman Thomas' two-run double.

Otherwise, it was "Nostalgia Night" in the American League Thursday as 36-year-old Billy Williams became the 16th man in history to hit 400 homers when he clubbed a three-run shot for the A's and 38-year old Harmon Killebrew smacked the 568th homer of his career in the Kansas City Royals' 2-1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

In other games, Baltimore coasted past Texas 7-1, Chicago drubbed Boston 9-2 and California stymied Detroit 7-1 after losing the completion of Wednesday night's suspended game 5-3. Minnesota at New York was rained out.

Royals 2, Indians 1

Jim Wohlford raced home from third with the winning run on a passed ball by Indians' catcher John Ellis in the 10th inning and right-hander Steve Busby yielded just five hits in gaining his eighth win against five losses. Killebrew tied the score at 1-1 for the Royals with a solo homer in the seventh, his seventh of the season.

Orioles 7, Rangers 1

Speaking of "comebacks," Jim Palmer scattered seven hits to record his 10th victory of the season for Baltimore and was aided by three RBIs from Mark Belanger on a pair of singles. Palmer (10-3) lost his shutout in the eighth on Mike Hargrove's two-out run-scoring single. Dave Duncan also drove in two runs for the Orioles, who stranded 13 baserunners.

White Sox 9, Red Sox 2

Deron Johnson and Bob Coluccio clubbed home runs and veteran Jim Kaat scattered 11 hits but went the route for his ninth win as Chicago topped Boston. Johnson stroked a solo homer in the second and Coluccio added a two-run shot in the third as the White Sox rudely greeted rookie southpaw Jim Burton. Burton had pitched a no-hitter in his last minor league game.

Angels 3-7, Tigers 5-1

Ed Figueroa hurled a sixhitter and Joe Lahoud stroked a three-run third inning homer as California avenged its earlier loss of Wednesday night's suspended game. Figueroa struck out four and was never in serious trouble while Lahoud, who belted a second homer in the ninth, had four RBIs. John Hiller preserved the suspended game for Detroit with 3 1-3 shutout innings for his eighth save.

739th Trip

Oakland A's pitcher Vida Blue waits for a new ball as Milwaukee Brewers DH Hank Aaron heds for third base in the fifth inning of the A's-Brewers game. Aaron hit his 739th home run and the first in Milwaukee County Stadium since Sept. 30, 1965 in the Brewers 9-7 win over the A's. (UPI)

Yankees Get Ed Brinkman

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees added some infield help Friday with the purchase of veteran shortstop Ed Brinkman from the Texas Rangers for a sum believed to be in the $100,000 range.

Brinkman, 33, joins the Yankees after a 10-day stay with the Rangers, who picked him up in a trade with the St. Louis Cardinals for centerfielder Willie Davis. The Yankees become Brinkman's fifth major league team in the span of nine months.

Brinkman has never batted for average but has a knack for getting hits with men on base. In 1972, the year Detroit won the American League East title, Brinkman batted only .203 but knocked in 49 runs.

That same year, Brinkman won the Golden Glove Award and set five major league fielding records for shortstops, including fewest errors (seven) and most consecutive errorless games (72).

The Yankees have used Jim Mason at shortstop this season and Brinkman's experience and know-how are expected to be called into play in helping him. The veteran probably will be used to spell Mason on occasion.

Brinkman finished the 1974 season with Detroit

ABA's First-of-Two 20 Percent Cuts

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Basketball Association, in the midst of a downhill economy, made its fair share effort Thursday with one 20 per cent cut and is likely to make another one today.

In a move encouraged by new Commissioner Dave DeBusschere and St. Louis Spirits president and general manager Harry Weltman, the ABA board of trustees Thursday unanimously approved the use of the 24-second shot clock, discontinuing the 30-second clock the league has employed on field goal attempts since its inception in 1967.

The board is likely to approve its second 20 per cent cut today, dropping the number of teams from 10 to 8 with the elimination of Memphis and San Diego.

"It's of utmost importance for a decision to be made regarding Memphis and San Diego as soon as possible," said DeBusschere. "I'm not entirely happy with the progress there. I'd like to be able to say all the problems are settled — but they're not."

DeBusschere said that today's session would be devoted almost entirely to the disposition of the clubs, with a decision "hopefully" made.

Several ABA owners want to consolidate from the present 10-team setup to an eight-club league, but DeBusschere is hopeful the circuit will retain its present makeup.

"Personally, I'd like to see 10 teams. It would be a much healthier situation, providing they were strong franchises.

"I don't want to see the same situation as last year. I don't want the league running any clubs—it's embarrassing for the trustees."

DeBusschere said there were discussions about the transfer of franchises to other cities, mentioning Hartford, Conn., as one of the locations. But the commissioner refused to expand on the subject until the trustees reach a final decision on the Memphis-San Diego problem.

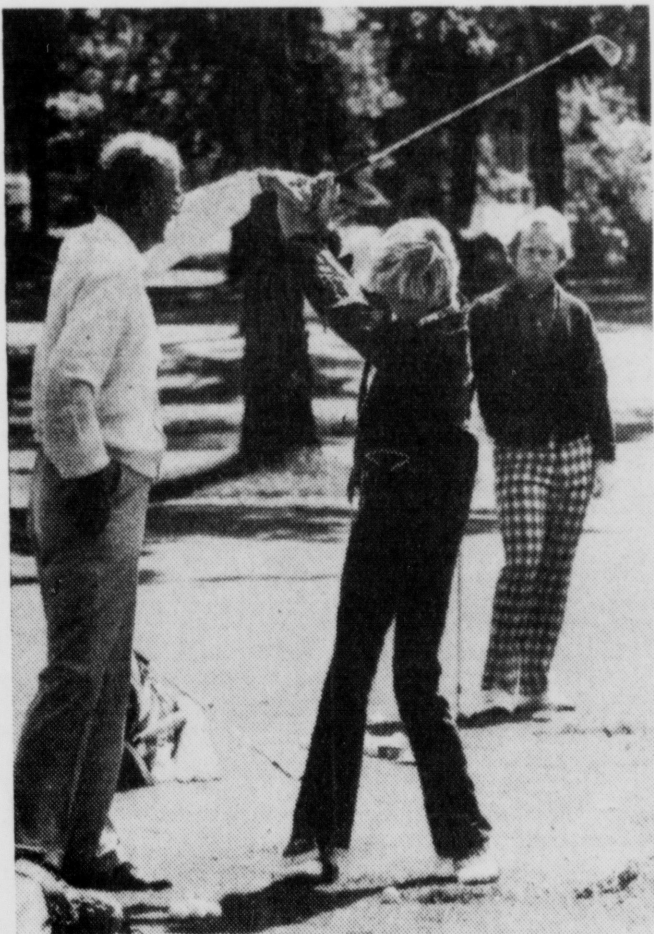

The board had no such problem making a decision on going to the 24-second clock, emulating the rival National Basketball Association.

"This is the only rule I wanted to see changed," said DeBusschere, a former star of the NBA's New York Knicks. "The average shot is taken in 18 seconds, anyway. This change adds to the defensive intensity of the game. It's harder to maintain a defense for 30 seconds."

There were no other rule changes.

There was some discussion on Thursday regarding Monday's eight-round college draft, and the participation therein of the Sounds and Q's. DeBusschere said both Memphis and San Diego will draft players unless some other action is taken before then.

Expert Instruction

Weather Is Fine, So Is Ali's Mouth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Muhammad Ali, the African from Louisville, Ky., says he loves the weather in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, where he is training for his title defense against England's Joe Bugner on the morning of July 1, which will be close to midnight June 30 back in Kentucky, and, most important, prime time for closed circuit audiences across the United States.

"I like it here," Ali said by amplified telephone from Kuala Lumpur Thursday to a gathering of writers in promoter Don King's plush penthouse office.

"The heat don't bother me none," Ali declared. "I was down to 229 this morning, but I still might be too heavy for Bug-ner. I might have to go into the rope-a-dope or the Russian tank against him. You know, if there was ever a chance to beat big mouth, this is it."

Did he mean he might lose to Bugner?

"No problem," was the immediate answer. "I'm representing all the black fighters of America. I can't let an Englishman beat me, 'cause then he could say he could beat all the brothers in America, because I'm the baddest brother in the world. I can't let the greatest fighter of all time lose, can I?"

There was no way to stop the cascade of words unless someone hung up the phone, which was tapped into a small private dinner party for 200 or so in the home of Malaysian prime minister Tun Abdul Razak. Don King was not about to hang up.

Off-setting the customary Ali bombast was the soft-spoken challenger, Bugner, whose apparently bland comments concealed a bit of bite. "I think," Bugner said at one point when Muhammad was babbling on and on, "I think the sun's getting to him."

Ruffian vs. Pleasure?

OCEANPORT, N.J. (UPI) — Phil Iselin, who attracted Joe Namath 10 years ago with $400,000, hopes now to match two animal superstars for the same money.

Iselin, president of Monmouth Park, was quick to notice the failure of the New York Racing Association to put together a race with Triple Crown event winners Foolish Pleasure, Master Derby and Avatar.

So he took that attempt one step further and approached the owner of Kentucky Derby winner Foolish Pleasure, John L. Greer, and the owner of unbeaten filly Ruffian, Stuart Janney, to try to get them together. He offered $400,000 and they said they'd think it over.

Thursday, Iselin said he was convinced the proposed match race would take place July 19.

"We have talked with the trainers and they, in turn, have discussed the proposed race with their owners," said

Iselin. "Both have shown marked interest because this is a competitive thing."

Asked if he really thought the race, to be run over 1½ miles, would become a reality, Iselin said, "yes, I really think we'll have a race."

The NYRA had hoped to stage a match race among the Triple Crown winners at Belmont Park for June 28 or 29, but the deal fell through when Avatar's owner, Arthur Seelgison, decided his colt was not up to the proposed 1½ mile race.

Asked why Monmouth Park was prepared to put up a record purse for the race, especially since Foolish Pleasure won only one of the three Triple Crown events, Iselin said, "It is the competitive thing to do."

"Ruffian undoubtedly is the 'filly of the year,' indeed, she might be the 'filly of all time,' while Foolish Pleasure, despite his losses in the Preakness and Belmont, is the 'colt of the year,' at this-point in the season. I believe the fans will be happy to see the race."

Iselin said the three television networks had shown great interest in the race, "and depending on what money we receive for the TV rights, and what sponsorship comes in, the purse could easily exceed $400,000."

Current plans call for the winner to receive $250,000 and the loser $150,000.

Iselin, who is also president of the New York Jets, added with a smile, "talking with these gentlemen is certainly easier than talking with Joe Namath. That's the next thing I have to do."

The Jets quarterback, who became a free agent May 1, turned down an opportunity to join the Chicago Wind of the World Football League, but still has to sign a new contract with the New York club. He signed his first contract with the Jets in 1965 for an estimated $400,000.

Muddy Landing

Jockey Jaime Arellano had a muddy landing when his mount, Merle's Girl, (R), fell after finishing behind the leaders in first race at Monmouth Park. Jockey Arellano was unhurt, except for a cut nose. The thoroughbred filly rested awhile in the mud then regained her feet and walked away from the scene. The six furlong event was won by Mararjo Princess ridden by Walter Blum. (UPI)

Janet Newberry Isn't Making Any Predictions

PARIS (UPI) — America's Janet Newberry feels she is playing exceptionally well now in the $218,000 French Open Tennis Tournament but against an opponent like Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia she isn't making any predictions.

Newberry, of La Jolla, Calif., faced the second-seeded Navratilova today to decide who will go into the final of the women's singles.

Defending champion Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., opposed third-seeded Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union in the other semifinal.

"I'm playing pretty well," Newberry said. "But Martina's so much better than any of my other opponents here that I just don't know how I'll do."

Newberry easily beat Eva Szabo of Hungary, 6-1, 6-2, to get into the semifinal while the Czechoslovakian lefthander ran through Donna Ganz of Miami Beach, Fla., 6-1, 6-1.

Evert said before her match with the Russian girl, "I haven't yet played Olga this year but I expect she will be hard to beat." She said that like herself, "Olga has been brought up on clay courts too."

Ganz said after her loss to the Russian No. 1 there was "no way" Morozova could beat Evert. "Chris's just too good on clay," she said.

Bjorn Borg almost had to call off his quarterfinal match with American Harold Solomon Thursday when he hurt his neck in the shower bath and could not move his head just two hours before the match. But the 19-year-old Swedish defending champion underwent three massage sessions and took several pills, including one painkiller to enable him to play. He won the match, 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.

Borg said afterward he had been shaking out his long blond hair in the stadium dressing room just after showering when his neck suddenly went stiff.

Borg said after his victory that his neck "hurt a little bit at the start, but I was surprised how quickly it got better."

The only real trouble first-seeded Borg had was in the second set when he got behind 1-5 to the American clay court specialist from Silver Spring, Md., and had three set points against him. Up to that point in the set the Swede had been looking sluggish on the court and it seemed as if the 22-year-old Solomon, known for his stubbornly consistent play from the baseline, would repeat his lengthy upset of Gottfried by relentlessly hitting the ball back.

But Borg saved the set points, won the game and turned the tide. He took the next five games also to make the set 7-5. In the next set, he got ahead 4-1 and coasted for the match victory.

John Andrews of Marina del Rey, Calif., became the second American eliminated in the quarterfinals Thursday when Adriano Panatta of Italy beat him, 6-3, 5-7, 7-6, 6-2.

Andrews put up a strong fight in the match, hitting superb passing shots and lobs in the two middle sets. He also scored points by following his hard serve to the net and volleying.

Panatta also played strong serve-and-volley tennis — a little better than Andrews — and gained the semifinal against Borg.

The other men's semifinal will match Eddie Dibbs of Miami Beach, Fla., against Argentina's Guillermo Vilas.

Hajec Wins Waterous Memorial

WOODSTOCK
Ross Van Wagenen, the heir apparent to the Woodstock Country Club crown, gave Dick Hajec four strokes on each side in the 18-hole finals of the Allen Waterous Memorial Tournament.

Van Wagenen matched par on the front nine despite a double-bogey six and held Hajec even. He didn't do as well on the back side and that's the story of Hajec's 4 and 3 victory.

Hajec didn't need his handicap strokes on the second where Van Wagenen ran into trouble. His net birdie-3 on the third hole gave him the lead he never surrendered except for a tie at the turn.

Van Wagenen's birdie-4 on the fifth hole was neutralized by Hajec's net 4 and a handicap stroke on the 7th hole enabled Hajec to get a halve. He went one-up with birdie-3 on the 8th and Van Wagenen squared the match with a par on the ninth.

Hajec won the 10th hole when Van Wagenen chipped too strongly from the edge of the green, halved the 11th with a net five and won the 12th with a net three.

After halving the 13th hole, Hajec used a stroke to move three-up on the 14th and closed out the match when Van Wagenen overshot the green on the 15th and needed three to get in on the par four hole.

Winning his first major club title of the season, Hajec, a solid 10-handicapper, had only one bad hole on the back nine. Van Wagenen, gracious in defeat, couldn't resist the observation that, "we have the toughest 10 handicap players in the country in Woodstock."

FAIRWAY LIES

With the Ulster County Amateur Championship dominating the golf scene this weekend, several area clubs will be concentrating on National Golf Day registrations for the regular memberships.

The target scores for NGD which runs for the next several weeks were set by Lee Trevino (66) and Sandra Haynie (74). Men receive full handicaps and women, 7 plus regular handicaps in their efforts to Beat the Pros.

Marion Burger racked up 59 points to lead the Wiltwyck Golf Club Ladies Day Mystery Tournament which turned out to be a Points Tournament.

Rossi Pauker and Betty Davenport tied with 55 points. Nancy Winter and Charlotte Koln each had 52 points. Other scores: Helen Potter 51, Nancy Jensen 50, Barbara DeForest 49, Arlene Neporent 49, Mickey Gruberg 49, Muriel Landesman 49, Marilyn Motzkin 48, Judy Parnett 48, Pat Davenport 48. Betty Davenport carded low gross 86.

Next Wednesday, the Wiltwyck women stage their annual Member-Guest tournament.

Mrs. William Pugliese, who has been running a hot streak in recent weeks, teams with her guest, Mrs. Burton Van Kleeck of Wiltwyck, to win the Twaalfskill Club's first Women's Member-Guest tournament of the season with the best ball of 32-35-67. Eighty percent handicaps were used.

Mrs. William Harris and Mrs. Emilio Groppuso were one stroke off the pace with 32-36-68. Mrs. Bernard Feeney Jr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lowe were third with 36-33-69.

Other scores: Mrs. Dennis Pitcock-Nancy White, 38-34-72; Mrs. Hubert Richter-Mrs. John Olivet, 38-34-72; Mrs. Jack Edwards-Mrs. Robert Davenport, 37-38-75; Mrs. Bud Potter-Mrs. Lewis Neporent, 40-36-76.

The Twaalfskill women start their annual Handicap Match Play Championship on Wednesday, June 17.

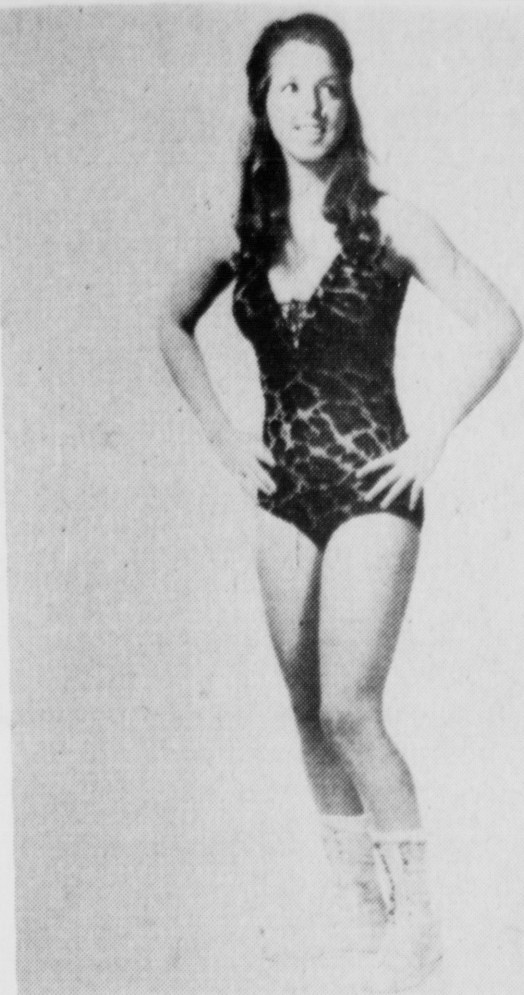

Dann Bigelow, coach of the ninth grade golfers at Kingston's Miller Junior High in Lake Katrine, has announced the results of the annual "school championships." "We had 17 competitors vying for three trophy awards," said Bigelow. "They are school champ, runnerup and most improved golfer."

Rick Hill emerged as the individual champion with scores of 47, 46, 49 and 51 at the long Sawyerkill Country Club course in Saugerties. Runnerup was Wayne Ferguson, 19 shots off Hill's winning pace. Dan Hatt was adjudged the Most Improved Golfer.

Flip Wilson, the TV comic who is becoming something of a regular in the Pro-Ams on the PGA Tour, went out to the gallery with Lee Trevino in the first round of the first NBC New Orleans Open. Flip showed up dressed like Pancho Villa, wearing his big sombrero, a couple of six-shooters, etc.

Trevino later was asked if Flip distracted him. Lee laughed, "Nothing distracts me as long as they don't grab my club on the backswing."

The Billy Caspars now have 10 children, after Shirley presented Sarah Beth to the family on May 3. They now have four by natural birth and six are adopted. "I'll be a father and a grandfather in the same year," Billy said proudly. "My daughter is expecting in October."

Shoot At Morgan Hill

MORGAN HILL
Morgan Hill Game Association holds its annual Spring Turkey Shoot Sunday, June 15. Rain date is June 16. The shoot will run from noon until dark.

Among the events listed are archery, .22 rifle, freestyle pistol, shotgun slug, 100-yard high power rifle offhand; sport hunting, rifle bench rest, unlimited bench rest, running deer, flying pheasant and modified trap. Turkeys will be awarded as prizes.

A special women-only event is offered on the .22 rifle range. A high gun trophy and runner-up plaque will be awarded to the individuals winning most events during the date. During the afternoon a team of archers from the Ethan Allen Archery will compete with pistol shooters in a special 50-foot target event.

The club may be reached from Route 209 to Dug Hill Road as well as from Route 28A to Dug Hill Road. The club is located on Croft's Road off Dug Hill Road.

Swimming Pool Opens in Hurley

HURLEY
The Town of Hurley Recreation swimming pool will be open for the first time Saturday and Sunday, starting at 12 noon. The pool will be open on a regular basis starting June 20.

The pool is located on DeWitt Mills Road. Charles Lang will be the pool director for the 1975 season.

Sawchuk, Siggia Lead

ST. REMY
Brian Sawchuk and Phil Siggia shared the top spot in Wednesday night's trap shoot at Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club. Both fired .940 scores with Sawchuk connecting on 25 straight hits.

Other leading finishers were Bob Schmedake, .910; Bill

Costello, .900; Jim Piro, .820; Grover Ellsworth Jr., .800; Ed Denny, .787; and Tom Bruck, .740.

The skeet competition also ended in a tie, this one between Sawchuk and Costello with .840 apiece. Ellsworth had .720.

Carner No. 2

ATLANTA (UPI)—Veteran JoAnne Carner has moved up to second place in the LPGA's weekly ratings of the top money winners with $31,919 after taking the Girl Talk Tournament at Pine Plains, N.Y. Her $7,000 first place check jumped Mrs. Carner from sixth place in the ratings. LPGA statistics showed Monday. Sandra Palmer remained far out in front with winnings of $48,883.

Jane Blalock was third with $29,598 followed by Sandra Haynie with $27,804 and Kathy McMullen, $27,452.

Others in the top 10 were: Donna Young, $26,335; Judy Rankin, $24,935; Carol Mann, $23,027; Carol Jo Skala, $20,354, and Sandra Post, $18,573.

Nancy Chamberlain: 2 Homers, 8 RBI's

KINGSTON
Nancy Chamberlain slammed five hits including two home runs and 8 runs batted in to lead Tony's Pizzeria to a 19-6 victory over The Handlebar in the Women's City Softball League.

Tony's led by just two runs going into the sixth, but put back-to-back six run frames together to make it a laughter for winning pitcher Linda Scott, who fanned seven Handlebar batters.

Scott and Debbie Hulsair tripled for the winners and Camilla Lentz doubled. Each drove in two runs.

Barbara Badalato absorbed the defeat.

In another A Division contest, Garden of Eden downed Pretty Pet Parlor, 14-4.

Ertha Burris' four hits and three apiece by Dianne Armstrong and Pam Vitaris sparked Eden. Mary Knickerbocker added a pair of safeties.

A key play in the game occurred when Barb Wenzel stopped a PPP threat with a fine catch in right field with the bases loaded.

Tehran-to-Washington Run Now All Too Familiar to Helms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It's no shuttle run from Tehran to Washington — roundtrip air distance 13,582 miles.

But since 1973, Ambassador Richard McGarrah Helms has made the trip probably more often than he cares.

Helms was director of CIA for almost seven years between 1966 and 1973, the first "professional spook" to hold that position.

And congressional and other committees and commissions keep calling him home to explain some of the things that went on during his tenure.

Helms is back in Washington again and is testifying under oath today before the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Activities headed by Sen. Frank Church, (D-Idaho). Church is zeroing in on "hard evidence" he says he has on CIA assassination plots involving foreign leaders.

Since Helms' last trip to Washington recently to testify before the Rockefeller Commission investigating CIA domestic activities, that body has issued a 299-page report which — although avoiding public mention of assassination plots — catalogued CIA domestic violations of its charter and American civil rights.

Some of the most controversial actions, according to the time frames given in the Rockefeller report, came during Helms' stewardship of the vast CIA establishment headquartered in the wooded countryside near Langley, Va.

Such as Operation CHAOS, a CIA operation against American citizens during the racial and antiwar turmoil of the late 1960s and early 1970s — carried out, the Rockefeller report said, at the "insistence" of Presidents Johnson and Nixon.

And massive mail intercepts at New York, New Orleans, San Francisco and Honolulu which were started in the early 1950s, long before Helms became director in 1966. But the Rockefeller report said Helms insisted on continuing the operation, personally briefing the chief postal inspector and also then Attorney General John Mitchell on why it was necessary.

Helms also will have to explain his testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Feb. 7, 1973, when he was being confirmed as ambassador to Iran. Asked then if the CIA had engaged in domestic activities against dissident groups, Helms said:

"I don't recall whether we were asked, but we were not involved because it seemed to me that was a clear violation of what our charter was."

In related developments:

• House Speaker Carl Albert said he hoped Rep. Lucien Nedzi, (D-Mich.), will remain as chairman of a House committee to investigate CIA. Nedzi announced his resignation in a dispute over his past knowledge of CIA activities and over subcommittee appointments. But Albert won't take the resignation to the House floor until Monday to allow time for tempers to cool.

• Sen. Walter Huddleston, (DKy.), told reporters the Senate Intelligence Committee of which he is a member has "uncovered a great deal" regarding foreign assassination plots by the CIA.

• President Ford formally advised the Justice Department he would send it the evidence gathered by the Rockefeller Commission plus "relevant materials" on domestic spying and alleged assassination plots from the files of the National Security Council, the State Department and the Defense Department — all for the purpose of seeing whether prosecution is warranted.

Worth of Egypt's Pledge Is Peace Key

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin insists that Egypt honor its secret undertaking to former President Nixon to allow Israeli cargoes to transit the Suez Canal.

Otherwise, he indicated at a news conference Thursday, a new interim agreement for Israeli withdrawals in the Sinai could not be negotiated.

Rabin and President Ford wound up two days of talks Thursday. Rabin was meeting with congressmen today before departing in the afternoon for New York.

There have been widespread published reports of a secret Egyptian pledge on Israeli transit made as part of the last Arab-Israeli interim troop disengagement and allegedly repeated to Nixon. Cairo has neither confirmed nor denied the reports.

Rabin did not specifically cite them Thursday, but the context made it clear he had them in mind when a reporter asked about passage of Israeli cargoes through the canal, re-opened for traffic June 5.

Rabin replied: "We believe all agreements must be carried out in all their parts before any new agreement can be reached."

He said Israel prefers more step-by-step negotiations rather than a return to the Geneva conference table. U.S. sources indicated that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger probably will go to the Middle East next month to restart his shuttle diplomacy.

Rabin said there must be parallel concessions; if Egypt is willing to make concessions then so is Israel.

He said he believed there was "a possibility for change in Egypt's position" as it was in March when Kissinger's last shuttle negotiations collapsed.

He added: "Unless there is a change there will be no change on our part."

"If there is no change in Egypt's position," he said at another point, "I doubt if an interim agreement will be achieved."

Despite these reservations, Rabin was still guardedly hopeful that a new agreement would be achieved.

But he said that, "In the Middle East, one has to have a little bit of patience. Therefore do not expect anything quick."

Long Drug Investigation Results in Arrest of 53

MIDDLETOWN—(UPI) —

Fifty-three persons were arrested Thursday, capping a 10-month undercover drug investigation, involving state police, the Orange County district attorney's office and Middletown and Newburgh city police.

The suspects were picked up throughout the county, most of them at their homes, on sealed indictments returned earlier by a grand jury.

The indictments contained 58 felony counts, including 36 in the Class A category carrying sentences of up to life imprisonment. Senior Investigator Fred Leibe of the state police narcotics unit said the charges mostly were criminal possession and criminal sale of heroin and cocaine. He said some soft drugs also were involved but were minor.

The suspects were taken to Goshen for arraignment in Orange County Court.

1000 Persons Crowd Nevele To Hear Jean Piaget, Founder of Child Psychology

By Dorothy A. Narel

Dr. Jean Piaget, considered by many to be the principal pioneer in the field of child psychology and whose studies made him world famous before the age of 30, was the keynote speaker Wednesday at a conference on early childhood education sponsored by the State University College at New Paltz and the State Education Department at the Nevele Country Club in Ellenville.

More than 700 were registered for the Conference on Piagetian Theory and Application with attendance peaking to 1,000 for the Piaget lecture after lunch. At least 500 requests for reservations had to be turned down, according to Dean Robert Davidson of the Center for Continuing Education at New Paltz.

Piaget who, at age 81, is still active as director of the International Center of Genetic Epistemology at Geneva, chose the topic "An Example of Causal Explanations Found in Children and in the History of Science."

Prior to his lecture, Piaget was presented with a special citation by the New York State Board of Regents. The citation noted that educators today "are creating more humanistic learning environments that are being increasingly influenced by your pioneering studies in child development . . . For us, you are above all one of the great innovators of our time, a giant whose research in its totality has compelled all educators to re-examine long-held assumptions in the light of a deepening understanding of how children learn." The citation lauded Piaget for his research into how thinking develops in a child which "now serves as an important foundation for our increasing emphasis on a more individualized, child-centered learning experience, one which assumes that all children want to learn and will learn if the educator facilitates the personal development of each child."

Piaget, who has been awarded no less than 27 honorary degrees, the "Prix de la Ville" of Geneva in 1963 and the "Erasmus Prize," which Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands presented to him in 1972, is considered to rank with Freud and Pavlov as the founder of modern psychology. In his book on Piaget (The Developmental Psychology of Jean Piaget), John H. Flavell suggests that the psychologist expends too much energy spinning an intricate theoretical spider web which does not catch enough of reality in it. Piaget, at his own admission, however, says that continuing research of his theories is "weaving considerable improvements into the web and I have the distinct impression that it is already catching more than flies." Piaget also admits that research concerning his theories is far from being completed.

What makes Piaget so unique is that, based on his wide knowledge of mathematics, physics, biology and anthropology, he has founded a new science — genetic epistemology — which has attracted scholars to him from all over the world. He became an authority on logic, sociology and psychology.

The genius of the man was beginning to unfold at the age of seven and 10 when he was to say in his autobiography that he was successively interested in mechanics, birds, fossils of the secondary and tertiary layers — and in seashells.

At the same time, he was busy composing a book on Swiss birds but he was forced to admit, after a few ironical remarks on the part of his father, that to his deep regret, this book was but a compilation.

At the age of 10, a one-page article entitled, "An Albino (Sparrow)," was his first scientific publication. When he was 21, he defended his thesis in zoology. He had already written about 20 articles which had brought on comical situations such as the flattering offer of a position as curator for a collection of mollusks at the Museum of National History in Geneva. The offer was turned down because at the time of the offer he was only 14 and "unfortunately had two years left before completing his baccalaureate."

It was at this stage of life that Piaget was introduced to philosophy and became fascinated by epistemology.

In his theory, Piaget stresses the importance of giving children a continuing chance to use and test their developing abilities in order to reach full intellectual growth. His work lists four basic phases reflecting a consistent movement on the part of the child toward the ability to reason abstractly. This progression suggests a gradual change in the child's thoughts from egocentric animistic processes to deductive ones.

Basically, Piaget's theory of the four phases of development are:

(1) The sensorimotor period (birth to two years), during which the child gains motor control and differentiates and identifies objects in space and time.

(2) The pre-operational period (two to seven years), during which the child reasons by proceeding from particular to particular without generalization or logic rigor (syncretic thought). The child is unable to introspect; his thinking is pre-causal, simultaneously contradictory, imitative and assimilative.

(3) The concrete operational period (seven to 11 years), during which the child's thinking progresses with socialization of his thought and behavior. During this period he develops a sense of reversibility of the thought processes and diminishes his contradictions. He starts to differentiate classes of objects and the relationship between them, but he cannot formulate concepts.

His studies made him world famous before the age of 30. At 81 and still active, he is considered to rank with Freud and Pavlov as the founder of modern psychology.

(4) The formal logical period (11-15 years) during which the child defines concepts, reasons logically and systematically and has the ability to use symbols.

"We may be entering a new phase of human self-understanding through his theories," says Dr. Harley C. Shands of Roosevelt Hospital in New York City, who has reviewed many of Piaget's published works. Shands says Piaget has demonstrated that the child begins to learn his universe in the kind of thinking mathematicians describe as "topology."

After his talk, Professor Piaget was interviewed by a panel of distinguished educators and scientists, including Dr. Jane Raph of Rutgers University, Dr. James T. Fleming, SUNY at Albany, Dr. Boyd McCandless of Emory University, Dr. Shands of Roosevelt Hospital and Dr. Burton White of the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

The two-day conference also included interest group sessions on early childhood education and the Piagetian theory. The sessions were led by education faculty members from New Paltz, from SUNY units at Oneonta, Albany and Cortland and from the University of British Columbia.

The conference, in which Dr. Pierre Francois of SUNY at New Paltz played an important part, climaxed three years of efforts on the part of the New Paltz College to bring the distinguished scholar to the United States.

The famed Swiss child psychologist enters the dining room at the Nevele on Wednesday with Eleanor Duckworth, senior research associate at the Atlantic Institute of Education, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada. Miss Duckworth was enrolled as a graduate student and research assistant with Jean Piaget at the Institute des Sciences de L'Education in Geneva, Switzerland. Subsequently, she has served as translator of Piaget's North American lectures and filled this function at the conference for the college-sponsored program. At right is Dr. Robert C. Davidson, Dean of Continuing Education at New Paltz, whose department sponsored the conference along with the Faculty of Education. All arrangements for Professor Piaget were handled by Dr. Pierre Francois, Professor of French, SUNY at New Paltz.

PIAGET greeted a limited number of college administrative heads in the Nevele Winter Lodge where he was housed prior to his address. With him here are (l-r) Dr. Mario Fantini, Dean, Faculty of Education at New Paltz; and Dr. Stanley K. Coffman Jr., president, SUNY at New Paltz. In his opening remarks at the general session welcoming

Dr. Piaget, Dr. Fantini said: "I have the rare privilege and honor of welcoming to the State University of New York, one of the most distinguished and productive psychologists of our time whose comprehensive studies of mental growth of the child are unexcelled in scope and depth . . ."

700 gathered for lunch and conversation in the main dining of the Nevele Country Club Wednesday. Dr. Jean Piaget, at right, flew in from Geneva, Switzerland, to be the keynote speaker at a two-day educational conference. Considered to be the founder of child psychology, Piaget places great emphasis on the effect of the environment in determining the pace at which the child learns. Essentially, he also says that children develop at their own pace and must pass through certain phases of learning for normal development. With him is Mrs. Stanley Coffman, wife of the president of SUNY at New Paltz. (All photos through the courtesy of SUNY, New Paltz)

Piaget is welcomed by close to 1,000 at the Nevele where he gave an address on "An Example of Casual Explanations Found in Children and in the History of Science." Piaget was presented with a special citation by the New York State Board of Regents.

It stated in part: "For us, you are above all one of the great innovators of our time, a giant whose research in its totality has compelled all educators to re-examine long held assumptions in the light of a deepening understanding of how children learns."

40th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ensign Hyatt of 28 Janet Street, Kingston, recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with a reception and dinner at Williams Lake Hotel, Rosendale.

The celebration was hosted by their children and spouses: Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Hyatt Jr. of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Anton (Betty Ann) Mason of New York City, and Deborah Hyatt of Atlanta, Ga. Also attending were numerous relatives and friends from the Kingston area.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt were married June 9, 1935 at the Church of the Holy Cross, Kingston. Their attendants were Mrs. Emily Salzmann, Kingston, and Nelson B. Hyatt, Clearwater, Fla.

Mr. Hyatt is retired from The Daily Freeman. He is presently a licensed real estate broker and executive officer of the Multiple Listing Service of Ulster County.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyatt have one grandchild, Christopher Ensign Hyatt.

Topic Selected for La Leche Meeting

The Saugerties La Leche League will meet Tuesday, June 17, at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Mary Ann Lindsay, 22 Country Club Drive, Mt. Marion.

For information or telephone consultation, Linda Donaldson of Saugerties or Ruth Sconga of Kingston should be contacted.

The next La Leche League series will begin July 8 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Patricia Kramer, Colebank Road, West Saugerties.

A family picnic is planned for June 29 at Hasbrouck Park in Kingston. Information may be had from Pan Ustick of Kingston.

The topic in this fourth and final meeting of this series will be "Nutrition and Weaning." The discussion will cover such items as when to start solids, baby's first food, ideal diets for pregnant and nursing mothers. Refreshments will be prepared from the League's "Mothers in the Kitchen" cookbook.

The Department of Visual Arts at Ulster County Community College will offer two art courses this summer that are designed for those with little or no background in art as well as for advanced students. They are Drawing and Composition I and Art History II.

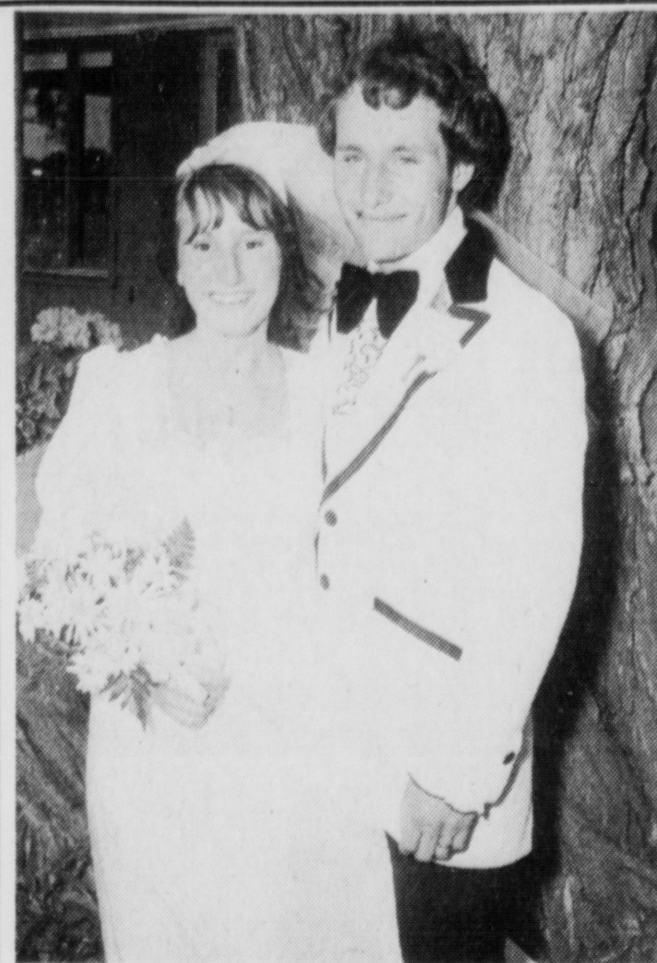

development of both disciplined draftsmanship and imaginative composition. Work, both in the studio and outdoors, will be from still-life, landscape and the figure. This course will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 11:10 a.m.-2:45 p.m.

History of Art II (Art 108) will be offered on Tuesday and Thursday from 7:30-9 p.m. This course emphasizes analysis of the European schools of painting and sculpture from the Proto-Renaissance through the Baroque-Rococo periods. Individual works of art will be examined during informal lecture-discussion classes to evaluate the impact of tradition, socio-economic forces, religious conditions and personalities on stylistic development.

Both art courses may be taken for credit or may be audited by anyone desiring academic enrichment without grades or college credits.

Persons interested in registering for these courses may do so at the college's Stone Ridge campus from 10 a.m. to noon and 7 to 9 p.m. Friday, June 20. Classes will start on Monday, June 23.

For further information, contact Professor Allan L. Cohen, chairman of the Department of Visual Arts.

Nuptial Vows Are Exchanged

Karen Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Adams of Perry, N.Y. and Englewood, Fla., was united in marriage to Robert Faulkner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hillia Faulkner of Shandaken, N.Y. The ceremony took place in the Perry Baptist Church with the Rev. Jack Middiker officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a Juliette styled gown of lute-song with lace panels front and back, and an elbow-length veil. She carried a nosegay arrangement of daisies, carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Deborah Smith of Poughkeepsie was maid of honor. Miss Faulkner, sister of the bridegroom, was a bridesmaid. Best man for his son was Hillis Faulkner and Leon Faulkner of West Shokan, was an usher.

Mrs. Faulkner is a graduate of East Aurora High School and SUNY at Delhi. Her husband, an alumnus of Ontario Central School, was graduated from SUNY at Delhi and is employed by Eastman-Kodak in Rochester where the couple will reside.

Miss Christina Dillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dillon of Los Angeles, Calif., and Gregory Downs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Downs of Kerhonkson, were united in marriage at St. Timothy's Catholic Church in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Miss Dillon's attendant was her sister, Miss Victoria Dillon. Tasha Sween, godchild of the bridegroom, was her flower girl. Christopher Downs of Washington, D.C. was his brother's attendant. The ushers were Thomas Sween of Excelsior, Minnesota, Steven Moore of Red Lodge, Montana, Steven Olsen of Denver, Colorado and Patrick Dennis of Portage, Michigan, all college classmates of Mr. Downs.

The Rev. John Budwick of New York City, formerly of St. Marys-St. Andrews Parish in Ellenville, and the Rev. McSorley of Los Angeles officiated.

A garden reception took place at the home of the bride's parents.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Downs are graduates of the University of Denver. They will make their home in Idaho where Mr. Downs is affiliated with Snug Mountaineering Inc. at Sun Valley and Ketchum, Idaho.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Douglas Jack of Montgomery, Mass. and Miss Shirley Downs of Washington, D.C. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chipp, Dr. and Mrs. A.M. Feldshuh, and Dr. and Mrs. S.S. Shapiro of Kerhonkson were also guests at the wedding and pre-nuptial parties.

Area Couples' Betrothals Are Announced

The engagement of Ellen Ann Spader to Howard Warren Johnson has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Spader of 158 Elmendorf Street, Kingston. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Johnson of 95 West O'Reilly Street, Kingston.

Miss Spader, a 1974 graduate of Kingston High School, is attending Ulster County Community College.

Her fiancé, a 1971 alumnus of KHS, is also attending UCCC. He is employed as a union painter and part-time ski instructor.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Baldus of 2 Pleasant Ridge Drive, West Hurley, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Karen, to John Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller of 98 Kelly Road, Red Hook.

The bride-elect, who is a student at Ulster County Community College, was graduated from Ontario Central School, Boiceville, was selected AFS Exchange Student to France in 1973 and is now employed by Aircraft Camera.

Her fiancé, a student at UCCC, was graduated from Fairview High School, Boulder, Colo., and is employed by Montgomery Ward and Co.

If a Man Rings It Might Be Michael Droulette

AVON CALLING

By Lynn Mulvaney

What does a young male medical student do who has a full time summer job as a hospital orderly but still wants to earn more money for tuition?

He becomes an "Avon lady!"

Don't think for a minute that it has anything to do with male lib however for that sort of thing is simply not young 21-year-old Michael Droulette's bag. "It is simply a means of making money to help finance my education," the Rolling Meadows-Elmendorf Heights developments. He said he is anxious to have people become acquainted with him so that women will not hesitate to open the door when he calls.

Having worked in the Kingston Hospital emergency room, Droulette is used to meeting all kinds of people and in a place where people need you. Now, he said, I need people . . . customers, and hopefully they will need a few products.

How did the young Coleman High School graduate who was listed in Who's Who in American High Schools, decide on a career as a doctor?

Actually it never occurred to him at first. A lover of outdoor life, he even chose a summer job of cutting grass over a hospital job while he was in high school.

But it turned out to be such a summer of suffering — from poison ivy, that the next year he chose the hospital job instead.

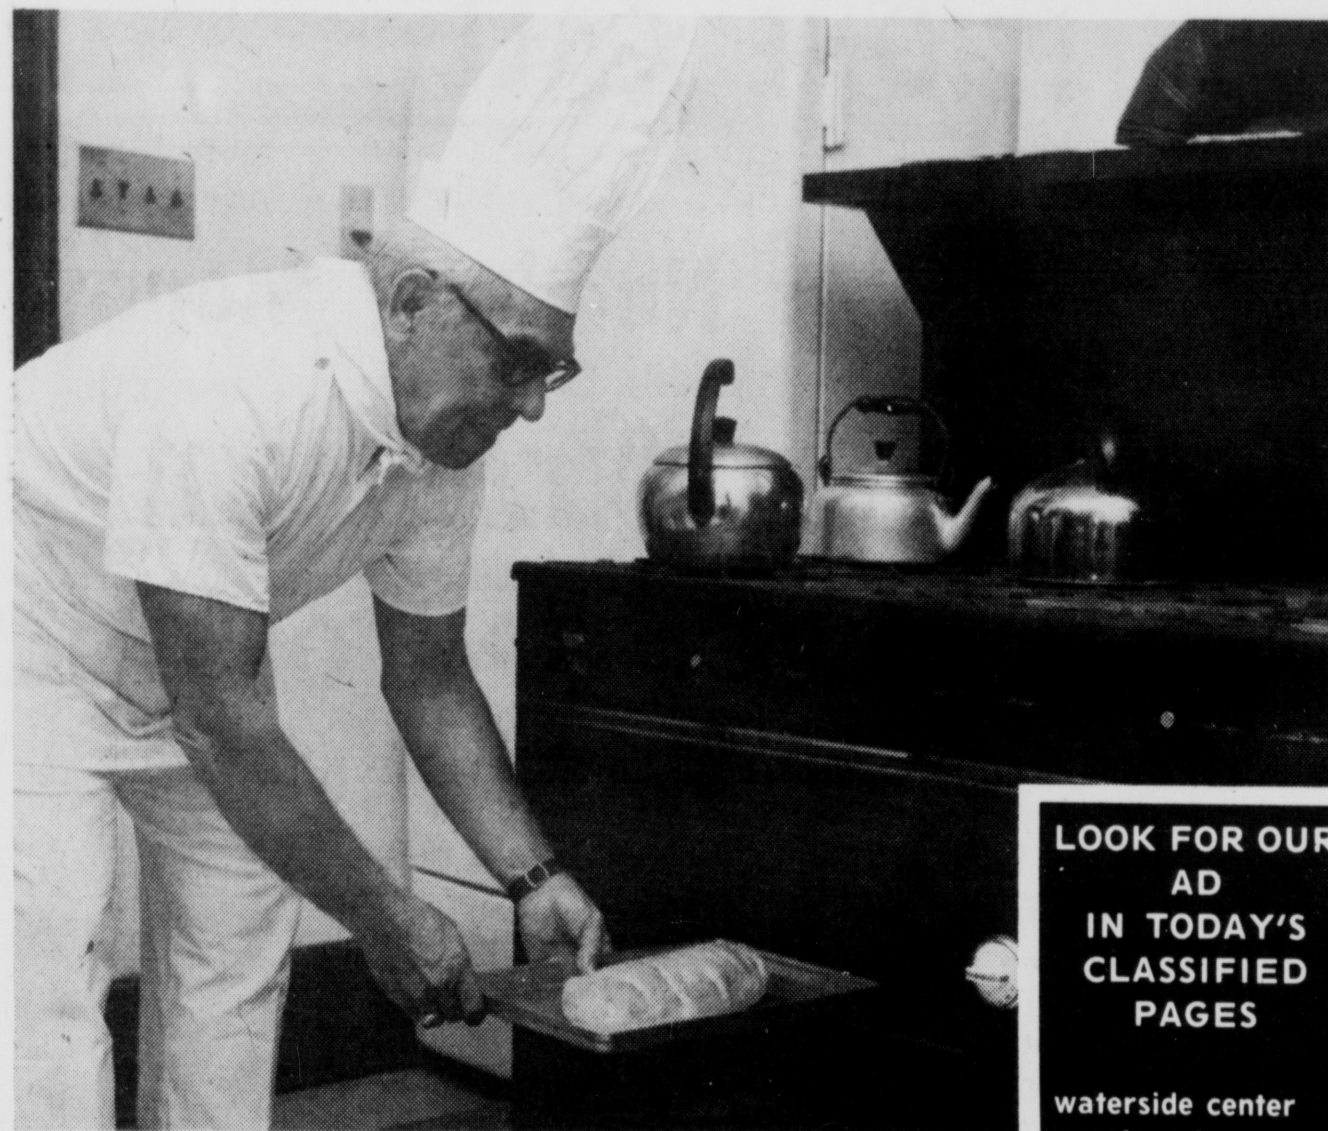

And, that is what turned the tide. The exposure of a medical environment enticed him and he switched his college math major to biology.

Droulette also did volunteer work at Rochester State Hospital and was a Big Brother to a Rochester youth.

A serious student, he scored in the top six percent in the nation on his Junior College Board exams, and finds that studying medicine is a full time job precluding any part time work during the school year.

So, when you hear "Avon Calling," you are also hearing a young man answering his calling.

Camera Coverage of Area Events

A new feature at the Yankee Doodle Dandy Fair Saturday, June 28, at St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany Avenue, will be homemade bread baked on the premises by Bob Buntz. It will be available throughout the day at the home-baked goods booth. A chicken barbecue by the Brooks House of Barbecue will be served from 3 to 7 p.m.

Handmade Bicentennial Quilt Presented to Museum by Students

A handmade Bicentennial quilt, the result of eight months of research and needlework by Mrs. Arlene Lungen's fourth-grade class in Ellenville, was presented to the Local History Museum recently at a special ceremony scheduled by the Ellenville Public Library and Museum.

Last fall the class went to the Museum to look for motifs and designs which would be a pictorial representation of our history. During the winter the children designed and quilted, with the technical assistance of Mrs. Kay Libolt.

At the program, Craig Kleinman gave a brief history of the quilt. Presentation speeches were made by Julia Brown and Joseph Terwilliger preceding the display of the quilt and formal presentation to Miss Katharine T. Terwilliger, museum chairman; Mrs. Sandra Donohue and Mrs. Nadia Shepard, library trustees. Miss Terwilliger, in accepting the quilt for the Museum, reminded the children that they, too, have now become a part of our heritage. An original sampler, also made by the class, was presented to Mrs. Libolt by Janie Van Tassel in appreciation of her many hours of assistance.

Brief comments by Superintendent of Schools James D. Evergetis and Library Director Marion Dumond praised the interest and diligence of the children who, with Mrs. Lungen's guidance, had exhibited such a sincere and continued interest in the Bicentennial.

The quilt will be on exhibit in the Museum from noon to 4 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Large Dance Group At the Playhouse

It has just been learned that Serena's appearance at the Woodstock Playhouse on Saturday, June 14, far from being a solo performance as many had expected, will include twenty four other dancers, among them being at least eight other professionals and the best students from her dance studios, as well as six talented musicians.

To hear and see the CIF TE TELLI, the Berber Dance, may be the equivalent, in the inflationary times, of a trip to the Casbah with a stopover in Turkey for its Karsilama and, of course, through northern Africa, Egypt, Persia and Armenia to the music of the Oud and other middle eastern and oriental instruments playing the traditional veil dance and the harem dance, and then changing to the faster and lively rhythm of the song ROMPI which sounds strangely like some popular Israeli music; all of which proves again that the world is indeed small in this day of fast transportation and instant communications.

Serena's success in elevating the mysterious and commercially distorted belly dance to the classic concert stage will be demonstrated with this gala event which is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. Saturday, June 14, at the Woodstock Playhouse, Junction 375 and 212, Woodstock, N.Y.

Some choice seats are still available at this writing and may be reserved by phoning the playhouse.

Mother-Daughter Fete At St. Clara Church

The annual mother and daughter banquet of St. Clara Church of God in Christ will be held Saturday, June 21, at 7:30 o'clock in the church dining hall, 150 Murray Street.

Another interesting and enjoyable evening has been planned for this event, including a guest speaker, fashion show and soul food.

The public is cordially invited and tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. James Childs, chairperson.

Couple Mark 25th

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Sheehan of Sheehan Lane in Saugerties celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary recently. A party was given in their honor by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stratton at their home at 79 Grandview Avenue, Kingston.

Married in 1950, at a Nuptial Mass at St. Joseph's Church in Kingston by the Rev. Msgr. John Simmons, their attendants were Ann Glennon Stratton and Denis Sheehan. Mrs. Sheehan is the former Wanda Heins. They are the parents of two children, Edward J. Sheehan Jr. and Kathleen A. Sheehan.

Mrs. Sheehan is employed by Ulster Hot Shoppes. Her husband is employed by IBM in Kingston.

Hubby's Jokes at Banquet Turn Guests Off

DEAR ABBY: My husband was recently the master of ceremonies at a banquet that about 300 people attended. Many of the town's leading citizens were there.

Well, my husband stood up there and told one dirty joke after another. (He never told me those jokes at home.) Some in the audience laughed, but I noticed the looks on the faces of some of the others, and they seemed shocked and somewhat disgusted. I was embarrassed, to say the least, and could hardly hold up my head.

Afterward, when I went to the powder room, none of the women there even spoke to me.

Abby, why would an educated man like my husband get up before a group of men and women, and tell filthy jokes?

I can't have you sending your reply to the house since my husband gets the mail first and I don't want him to know I wrote to you.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: Your husband probably thought he was being entertaining. It was simply a case of bad judgment. Let him know that you were disappointed in him.

A new organization has been formed for wives of deputies employed by the Ulster County Sheriff's Department. Elected to serve as the first slate of officers were (l-r) Juliette Mugford, secretary; Ruth Malone, president; Marcia Lima, vice president; and Peggy Van Wagenen, treasurer. Mary Ann Hyatt will be in charge of community liaison. Ulster County Sheriff Thomas F. Mayone hailed the new Deputy Sheriff Wives' Association as "another major step on fostering better understanding between the total community and the Sheriff's Department." Mrs. Mayone, active in civic projects, is an honorary member.

He may learn from it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She is usually a very sweet and considerate person, but when we take her to the movies, she hoots and howls and talks out loud. This is not only annoying to the other people in the theater, it is also very embarrassing for my husband and children.

We really love Mums and wouldn't hurt her feelings for the world, but taking her to a movie is a hassle.

Please give us any suggestions you might have since Mums is coming again soon and she loves to go to the movies.

HER DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Hooting and howling during the funny parts would normally distract no one, but if Mums is the only one who thinks a sequence is funny, her problem may be bigger than yours.

Talking out loud is unfair to others, so gently shush her when she gets carried away.

Or take her to drive-in movies. Only those in your car will be annoyed, which would eliminate the embarrassment.

DEAR ABBY: My mother has been dead for several years, but a friend of hers (now quite elderly) asked me if she could use my home to entertain 16 ladies at a birthday luncheon. She explained that her small apartment wasn't adequate.

I agreed gladly, but I did absolutely nothing for the party. The woman who gave the party provided for food and flowers, and even hired the help.

I later learned that one woman declined the invitation because she felt that since the party was being given at my home, the invitation should have come from ME!

This has bothered me. Should I have sent out the invitations?

A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: No. You were not the hostess. You only agreed to have the party in your home.

Statements Allowed In Disco Fire Trial

WHITE PLAINS — (UPI) — The judge in the trial of Peter Leonard, accused of setting the fire which killed 24 persons at a Port Chester discotheque last year, has ruled admissible statements made to police by Leonard conceding he may have accidentally started the blaze.

Leonard, 23, of Byram, Conn., is charged with setting the fire at Gulliver's discotheque last July to cover a burglary of the adjacent Carol Lanes bowling alley.

State Supreme Court Justice George Beisheim Jr. Thursday admitted Leonard's concessions into evidence after 3½ days of pre-trial hearings during which the defense tried to prove the remarks were made under duress.

At issue were 15 written and oral statements made by Leonard during several interrogations by police on July 3, 4, 11 and 12. Beisheim ruled all 15 were admissible.

Leonard's counsel, Stephen Pittari of the Westchester Legal Aid Society, had contended that Greenwich, Conn., Det. Sgt. Vincent Ambrose had threatened Leonard during the interrogation, at one point ordering the young man to look directly at him or be thrown "out the window."

At another point, Ambrose, apparently frustrated by conflicting statements Leonard made during the day of questioning, said he would find evidence "to bury you (sic) to the cross." Pittari claimed.

However, Beisheim ruled that Leonard had been advised "beyond a shadow of a doubt" of his constitutional right to remain silent and voluntarily made the statements without police coercion. He dismissed Ambrose's threats as remarks made in the heat of the moment.

During the pre-trial hearing Leonard was shown to have admitted breaking into the Carol Lanes bowling alley through a skylight.

In a taped interrogation, Leonard said he may have dropped the lit cigarette in a box full of stuffed and plastic toys. He added he noticed a fire when he started to leave the darkened bowling alley but kept on going.

The tape also showed, however, that despite prolonged and often rigorous questioning on July 11, 1974, Leonard repeatedly denied setting the fire on purpose, or using a combustible fluid.

It will be up to the jury to determine the validity of the statements, along with all other testimony and evidence. Jury selection began immediately following the conclusion of the pre-trial hearing.

KINGSTON Investigation continued today into an armed robbery Thursday morning at the Convenience Food Mart on Broadway in which a lone man, carrying a pistol, made off with between $600 and $700.

The robber, according to detectives, was white, in his early twenties, with dark brown shoulder length hair and a thin mustache.

The robbery occurred at about 9 a.m.

Meanwhile, in other area police matters: Hurley State Police BCI investigators are probing a $2,500 house burglary which occurred at a Lapla Road residence in the Town of Marletown.

Investigators said jewelry, coins and other items were taken in the break-in at the residence of Mike Jewczyn sometime between 9 a.m. and 3:20 p.m. Wednesday. The house was completely ransacked, authorities said.

A Town of Kingston crash at about 11 a.m. Thursday on Sawkill Road resulted in injuries to the drivers of the two cars involved.

Taken from the scene following the collision by Doctor's Ambulance were Seton Cottier, 47, of 15 Streamside Terrace, Woodstock and Miss Deana Thomas, 18, of Zena-Sawkill Road, Woodstock. Cottier was listed in serious condition today in the intensive care unit at Kingston Hospital. Miss Thomas was treated and released.

State police said the two autos were traveling in opposite directions when the crash occurred. Cottier was ticketed for failure to keep right.

In Kingston, a fire Thursday in lockers at Kingston High School has resulted in an investigation. The blaze, of incendiary origin, was reported shortly after 2 p.m. in lockers on the top floor of the south wing. Students put out the fire before firemen arrived.

Thursday's fire marked the second day in a row locker fires have occurred at the high school.

C. Arnholt Smith, 76, friend of former President Nixon and head of a once vast corporate empire, begged for compassion with tears in his eyes Thursday and was given a probationary sentence for scheming to defraud his own bank of $27.5 million. Smith pleaded no contest to four felony counts on charges of conspiring to defraud his now defunct United States National Bank. He received a suspended two-year sentence and was fined the maximum $30,000. (UPI)

KINGSTON The 1975 Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth (SPEDY) is accepting applications for summer employment.

High school applicants must be between 14 and 21 and college applicants must have been enrolled in classes during the past spring. All applicants must meet federal low family income guidelines.

For additional information about the program, sponsored by Ulster County and administered by the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, contact the YMCA at 507 Broadway, Project STEP at 358 Broadway, or the Rondout Neighborhood Service Center at 97 Broadway.

Flag Day Rites

KINGSTON Flag Day Services, an annual event with Elks since 1909, will be held this year by Kingston Lodge 550 on Saturday 7:30 p.m.

Services will be conducted on the lawn of the Lodge Home, 143 Hurley Avenue. The public may attend.

Chairman for the event is Past Exalted Ruler Robert E. Scutt.

New Name, Same Man

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Charles Stickle, a suspect in the rape and burning deaths of two 16-year-old girls, was apprehended two weeks ago under another name, police said today.

Police said Stickle was picked up at a downtown Trenton, N.J., street two weeks ago on charges of possession of stolen property.

He was stopped for investigation after he used a credit card which later turned out to have been stolen, as was the car he was driving, police said.

Stickle, 20, of West Conshohocken, Pa., was wanted by police in the rape and burning deaths of Tina Statuti and Beverly Roddenbough.

The two were picked up in West Conshohocken May 9 by two youths and set afire in a parked tractor-trailer truck in the Manayunk section of Philadelphia.

Miss Statuti died immediately, but Miss Roddenbough, who sustained burns covering nearly 90 percent of her body, was able to tell police who her abductors were before she died slightly over a week ago.

A second suspect in the incident, Robert Rigler, 22, also of West Conshohocken, was apprehended by police shortly after the incident at a girlfriend's house, here.

Stickle allegedly admitted he was not the owner of the credit card, but said he was Thomas Hickey. He was being held in Trenton County Jail under that name.

Philadelphia police said they received an anonymous call Thursday night saying Hickey was actually Charles Stickle, and it was confirmed.

Your Astrograph

For Saturday, June 14, 1975
 ARIES (March 21-April 19) You tend to treat outsiders with more consideration today than those of your own family. Bear in mind they have feelings too.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Let bygones by bygones. Nursing a senseless grudge could crowd some of the sunshine out of your life today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If sharing the evening with friends, be sure you willingly share the tab, even though you drank beer and others drank champagne.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may be so interested in discussing business matters that you'll alienate or bore others in the group.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Avoid debating sensitive subjects this evening with one whose views oppose yours. Hard feelings will result if you do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A domineering older person will try to take advantage of your good nature this evening. If you see her coming, try to retreat gracefully.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're in charge of organizing a gathering tonight, don't invite two parties who usually generate sparks.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You won't be able to loosen up today if you keep thinking of all those loose ends. Relax.

you'll get them tied in due course.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you're talking about a subject you know only slightly and someone says you're wrong, don't try to brazen it out. Admit your mistake.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Not a good day to get into a budget discussion with your mate. Both will want to cut expenses in areas objectionable to the other.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're not an effective team player today. You'll be overly concerned about the others person's holding up his end.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't strain yourself physically today. Wait until you have a couple of strong arms to help out.

Your Birthday

June 14, 1975

Have your suitcase and traveling gear ready this year. You're going to take several "fun" trips, one you'll like so much you'll want to repeat it.

Overruffing Rough on Defense

By Oswald &amp; James Jacoby

Some bankers fail to do well at bridge because they think that a trick taken early gains interest. Actually, there are plenty of occasions when refusing to take a trick early will lead to a nice capital gain. East won the first trick with the jack of spades over dummy's 10 and led back the king. South ruffed with the queen of trumps and West plunked on the king remarking, "No better time and place for it."

He led back a club to his partner's ace. Another spade was led. South ruffed with the ace, drew trumps and claimed the balance.

West had nothing to gain by overruffing that spade. Suppose he just discarded. Later on that king of trumps would score over South's jack or 10. West would put East in with a club. A third spade would be led and there would be no way to keep West's eight of trumps from winning the setting trick.

Incidentally, this type of play is not too unusual. You will be surprised at the number of extra trump tricks you will gather in if you refuse to overruff automatically.

Young American Award

KINGSTON
The Young American Award program concluded its eighth year of youth recognition this week with the selection of Kingston High School senior Jeff Werbalowsky as overall winner, for 1974-75.

He was winner of the November Young American Award and was selected as Young American of the Year for his outstanding academic and activities achievement.

The program, sponsored locally by Montgomery Ward, selects outstanding high school seniors from area school systems for special citations. Monthly winners, October through May are honored at a dinner and presented with award certificates.

Winners during the past season in addition to Werbalowsky were:

October, Wendy Friedman, Rondout Valley High School; December, Ellen Hilt, Ellenville High School; January, Ann Markes, Kingston High School; February, Michael Matthews, John A. Coleman High School.

Also, March, Martin Hain, Saugerties High School; April, Elizabeth Ann Ciacio, Highland High School and May, Karen Olson, Onteora High School.

Judges panel this year was chaired by Len Cane, Ulster County Chamber of Commerce executive. Community leaders serving on the selection panel were the Rev. David W. Arnold, rector of St. Gregory's Episcopal Church, Woodstock; Dean Robert Markes of Ulster County Community College, Howard C. St. John of the law firm of St. John, Ronder and Bell and Hubert A. Richter, Kingston city judge.

Every school system in Ulster County is invited to participate in the program by submitting resumes and recommendations of exceptional seniors who have a record of academic achievement and school and community service. Cane noted that most high schools do participate with many worthy entries making selection difficult.

Congratulations to Annual Winner
Jeff Werbalowsky, Kingston High School senior, receives Young American of the Year Award from George Dumbault, Montgomery Ward manager. Taking part in the presentation ceremonies are the honorees parents, Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Werbalowsky and Len Cane (R), Ulster County Chamber of Commerce executive and chairman of the judges. The youth recognition program is sponsored throughout the school year by Montgomery Ward. (Freeman photo)
